SHACKLETON, ON TRIP TO POLE, DIES AT SEA

Heart Attack Fatal on Quest.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—Sir Ernest Shackleton, the British explorer, died Jan. 5 on board the steamship Quest, on which he was making another expedition into the Antarctic regions. Death was due to angina pectoris. The body was brought to Montevideo on board a Norwegian steamer and will be taken by another steamer to Europe. Capt. L. Hussey of the Quest will accompany the body home. Subcommander Frank Wild and the other members of the explorer's party will continue the expedition. Sir Ernest died on board the Quest, which was anchored off South Georgia Island.

Illness Is Sudden.
The previous night he had been slightly indisposed, but no uneasiness was felt for him. His medical needs were attended to by Capt. Hussey. At 3:30 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 5, he began to sink rapidly, and despite all efforts by his attendants, he died within three minutes. Capt. Hussey said the symptoms showed that Sir Ernest had died from angina pectoris. His body was transferred from the Quest to a Norwegian steamer and, accompanied by Capt. Hussey, arrived here this morning. Governmental and military honors were paid the body. The government will retain custody of the body until it is embarked for England, which probably will be on board the steamer Asda Feb. 11.

Died in Three Minutes.
LONDON, Jan. 29.—[By United Press.]—The ship meteorologist, Hussey, in a message to Daily Mail, says: "Shackleton called Maj. Macklin, the ship's surgeon, who was on watch, and complained of a pain in his back. He immediately collapsed and died in three minutes without saying anything. He never previously complained of illness, but said that he felt tired."

AT START OF EXPEDITION.
The death of Sir Ernest Shackleton cut short an expedition which in some respects promised to be the most notable of the daimless explorer's career. The voyage was to have covered 30,000 miles of the uncharted sections of the South Atlantic and Pacific and Antarctic oceans. London rocked with cheers on Sept. 11 last when the Quest sailed down the Thames. On board were nineteen adventurers, including two boys Scotch.

Storm at Outset.
Following a brief stop at Plymouth, where wireless equipment was installed, the Quest set sail for Madeira. The first omen of an ill-fated voyage came when the discovery ship tossed perilously for days in a North Atlantic tempest. The Quest finally limped into Lisbon, where it dropped anchor for repairs. A few days later the two boys Scotch quit the expedition.

Born in Ireland.
Sir Ernest Shackleton was born in Kilmore, Ireland, in 1874. Educated at Dulwich college, England, his life of adventure started when he was a boy. He went to sea before the mast on a sailing ship. But in four years he had qualified as second, and the following year as first mate.

In 1901, he left on his first antarctic trip, as third lieutenant of the Scott expedition. In 1907 to 1909 he was again in the antarctic as commander of the expedition which discovered "King Edward VIII." plateau and the magnetic south pole. He penetrated to within ninety-seven miles of the south pole. He was knighted by the British king and received numerous foreign honors. With special permission from the British government, he sailed again for the antarctic in 1914 and after two years' explorations, he returned and entered the government service. He served with the British army in North Russia, in 1919.

JEWELER, WIFE BOUND, GAGGED, $15,000 TAKEN

Two Dead in Day's Crime Toll.

One citizen shot and killed, another beaten to death; a wholesale jeweler and his wife bound and gagged in their home and then robbed, and a dozen others plundered of their valuables—such was the toll Chicago paid yesterday to criminals with guns in their hands. Three bandits were captured after an exciting chase by the new highway police of Sheriff Charles W. Peters.

William A. Kirkham, wholesale jeweler, with offices in the Kessler building, and his wife were bound, gagged, terrorized, and robbed of $15,000 worth of jewelry in their apartment at 793 Montrose avenue last night. The robbers escaped.

Mr. Kirkham, who had been in conference with a business partner during the afternoon, returned to his flat shortly after 9 o'clock. Opening the door, he saw nothing unusual. He walked into a bedroom and switched on a light.

"Stick 'em up!" came a command from behind him. Turning, he saw three masked men, each with two guns pointing at him. He made no resistance; they bound him with rope.

Ask for Jewels.
"Where are those jewels you have here? Where is your wife?" they questioned him. "I have no jewels here at home; my wife won't return tonight," he replied. Then for an hour they ransacked the apartment.

Mrs. Kirkham came home at 10 o'clock. In the hallway of the apartment the burglars met her. She was slugged and dropped unconscious before she could make any outcry. They stripped her of a diamond brooch and five rings. These, with a diamond stud taken from Mr. Kirkham, were valued at $15,000.

Neighbors, hearing the scuffling, came to investigate. The robbers fled through the rear door. Mrs. Kirkham was taken to the Lake View hospital by the police. She is not seriously hurt.

Home Looted, Husband Gone.
Meanwhile, out at 1515 West Roosevelt road, Mrs. Anna Wright and her two children returned home from a picture show. When she left her husband was asleep in bed. When she came back she found the front door barricaded with chairs, the house ransacked, and her husband missing. Police are investigating.

Early yesterday morning A. F. Staranski and Ted Kuhn, two county highway policemen, found an automobile containing a revolver holster, two handfuls of ammunition, and three cloth caps, standing, unlighted, near the Dempster Inn, a roadside near Morton Grove.

A few minutes later they saw three men hold up an automobile in which Edward Black, 1275 Wade street, and several women were driving.

Deputies Take a Hand.
The deputies joined the party. Jacob Steinbuck, 1824 Church street, Evanston, opened fire on the officers. They replied. Ralph Johnson, of two same address, fell with a bullet in his leg. Thomas Heilison, 1619 Florence avenue, the third bandit, surrendered. Steinbuck fled in the automobile, but was captured later. The men have been identified as the principals in several holdups.

Herman Beves, druggist at 3501 5th avenue, died at the West Side hospital yesterday of bullet wounds inflicted by a lone bandit three days ago.

W. A. Winship, a colored junk dealer, 71 years old, was found beaten to death in his shop at 2712 South State street. Police believe robbery to have been the motive.

MAN HE ACCUSED CALLS HUSBAND TO DOOR, SHOTS

Early this morning Clarence Burres, 2291 Milwaukee avenue, went to the home of Elmer Johnson, 2723 St. George court, rang the bell and called Johnson to the door. Johnson, it is said, had accused Burres of flirting with Johnson's wife at a dance last night. A quarrel followed Burres' call and Burres shot Johnson three times in the chest. Burres then shot himself twice in the hand.

The shooting took place within half a block of the Shakespeare avenue station and several policemen on their way home rushed to the scene and seized Burres. He confessed.

Muratore Has Appendicitis; Faces Knife?

BULLETIN.

Howard Potter, personal representative of Mary Garden, over the phone from New York at 1:30 this morning said that Muratore was in a bad way. Potter said there was to be a consultation of four physicians at 4 o'clock this morning and another at 7 as to the advisability of or necessity for an operation upon the singer.

New York, Jan. 29.—Lucien Muratore, tenor of the Chicago Opera company, now playing at the Manhattan Opera house, is ill with appendicitis in his hotel apartment here, but his condition is not reported as serious.

He was stricken last Saturday night after appearing with Mary Garden in "Carmen." He has been forced to cancel engagements scheduled for Monday and Wednesday evenings.

His physician, Dr. Charles F. A. Locke, said tonight: "Mr. Muratore's condition at present is not serious. I hope that he will be able to sing by the end of the week. No operation is contemplated at present, but one cannot tell what condition may develop as a result of this attack."

FOIL ATTEMPT OF 70 TO FLEE COUNTY JAIL

Tear Off Door Trying to Escape.

Quick and courageous action by Dr. Norman Copeland, night physician at the county jail, and four jail guards thwarted early Saturday evening, it was learned yesterday, the most serious attempt by prisoners to effect a wholesale jail delivery made in recent years.

Seventy prisoners occupying cells in "murderers' row" on the fourth tier of the jail participated in the attempted escape.

The men tore a heavy chain stretched across the bull pen from its moorings. With this they wrecked cell 416 of the tier, tore the heavy steel cell door off, and were using it as a battering ram to force their way from the bull pen when they were stopped.

Five Men Stop Delivery.
Dr. Copeland and the four guards succeeded in stopping the prisoners in their attempt to better their way to freedom only by menacing them with loaded sawed-off shotguns from both sides of the pen.

The ringleader of the prisoners was John Grafie, who is in jail on a charge of robbery, and who is under indictment for alleged assistance he gave O'Connor in his sensational escape.

The trouble started at 3:30 in the afternoon, when the prisoners were signaled to go back into their cells from the bull pen, where they had been exercising. Guard John Pavlo went into the bull pen to unlock the cells but the prisoners refused to re-enter them.

Rebels Taunt Jail.
Pavlo rebelled at once to Jailor Peter C. Lawrence. The jailer went to the tier.

Derisive cries greeted him. Lawrence ordered Pavlo to unlock the cells, thereby forcing the men to stay in the bull pen. At 6:20 the men were looting about on the floor of the pen. They appeared to be quiet and the jailer went to dinner.

A few minutes later Dr. Copeland, who was examining prisoners in the receiving room of the jail, heard a terrific racket emanating from the fourth tier. He rushed up the stairs and gathered Guards Pavlo, Kordecki, Reinhold, Adams, and Peter J. Wagner. Each, including the physician, took a sawed-off shotgun.

Fall to Head Throat.
"Now you fellows stop!" shouted Dr. Copeland.

"Aw-aw-aw, you're afraid to shoot," the prisoners hooted and battered the door again.

"Am I?" shouted the physician. "Well, I'll show you," and he turned to the guards. "One more jolt from these fellows and you shoot to kill," he ordered.

The men backed away. For a moment they stood irresolute. Then they dropped the heavy iron door and the riot was over.

AN HEIR AT LARGE

(Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.)

CHAPTER XXI.

Tony Romisky was a sad looking object. Both eyes were black and swollen, his nose was bleeding and two front teeth were gone. Henceforth the late czar of the Lannard mills would talk with a lisp.

In silence the crowd saw him regain his feet and disappear unsteadily through the wings. Then a clamor of voices arose.

"Wow! What a wallop!" shouted one man above the hubbub, and a burst of laughter sounded the knell of Romisky's power.

"Say, kid, you're all right!" "Atta boy!" "O, baby!"

Rasher was putting on his overcoat. He turned and the noise ceased as suddenly as it had begun.

"I hope I haven't mused up your program," he said, "but I'm not sorry to have mused up your chairman. He got what was coming to him. He's been double crossing you and getting rich at it. He's on Stab's secret pay roll under the name of Antonio Robinson. I can prove this if anybody doubts. That's why you haven't been getting anywhere with your strikes, and you never will with him as a leader!"

Early next morning nearly everybody in Adamant and Sember City had heard of the sensational fight. Of course the story grew or was distorted in a hundred different ways. Romisky's henchmen tried to start a back fire with tales that Rasher had pulled a gun, and wore brass knuckles, and had struck without warning. These versions led to several more fights and very soon Romisky's men realized the futility of circulating them.

Had the fight been in private, Romisky's reputation would have outweighed Rasher's word, but the latter, knowing this, picked a time and place where all could see and testify to his fairness.

Romisky did not appear next day, and people wondered whether he had fled from Adamant or retired until his face regained something of its normal appearance.

Harry L. Rasher, however, drove his truck on a triumphant course through the town. In a single hour he had won the admiration and respect of the mill workers to a degree which he could have attained in no other way than by the display of physical prowess. These men lived by their muscles, and strength was something they understood and worshipped. No triumph of intellect could have impressed them so deeply. Perhaps Rasher had this in mind when he staged the dramatic showdown. Already he had captured their imaginations, now their admiration, and he hoped soon to win their confidence.

Miss Mary Brook, walking down the hill from her home, was surrounded by an excited throng of children.

"Have you heard about Mr. Rasher?" they cried, and her heart stood still.

"He had an awful fight!" They were all talking at once and from their scrambled exclamations, she could only gather that something terrible had happened. Setting the eldest boy, she commanded the others to be still.

"Now, Mike, what happened? Is he hurt?"

"O, he had an awful fight, Miss Brook, an 'ever' thing! My father said so."

"But who fought? Tell me at once!"

"Mr. Romisky and Mr. Rasher. He knocked him all over and he couldn't get up. His teeth were all knocked out. It was terrible."

Miss Brook was suddenly sick with apprehension. "The brute!" she exclaimed.

"An' he's beat it," Mike hurried on, eager to give all the details. "I guess he's afraid to show himself in town any more."

So Rasher was gone! The clear cold day with the ruddy sunshine filtering through the smoke pall became dull for her. It never occurred to her that the slight, mild looking newcomer, unknown and penniless, would have any chance against such a well known powerful bully as Romisky.

"Did you hear how badly Mr. Rasher was hurt, Mike?" she asked in a tired voice.

"O, he wasn't hurt at all, Miss Brook."

"What? What do you mean? Mr. Rasher wasn't hurt?"

"Now, it was Tony Romisky that was hurt. I just saw Mr. Rasher driving his truck. Everybody's cheering him downtown."

The sun burst out and flooded the world. And Mary Brook knew she was in love with Harry Rasher.

HARDING CONDOLES WITH SUFFERERS IN PLAYHOUSE CRASH

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—President Harding issued the following statement on the Knickerbocker theater disaster:

"I have experienced the same astounding shock and the same indescribable sorrow which has come to all of Washington and which will be sympathetically felt throughout the land. If I knew aught to say to soften the sorrow of hundreds who are so suddenly bereaved, if I could say a word to cheer the maimed and suffering, I would gladly do it. The terrible tragedy, staged in the midst of the great storm, has deeply depressed all of us and left us wondering about the revolving fate."

CAPITAL RUINS YIELD VICTIMS; 134 ARE INJURED

Believed Bodies Are All Out.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30, 1 a. m.—

[By the Associated Press.]—Official police records early this morning placed the known dead in the Knickerbocker theater disaster at 107. Elimination of duplicated names brought the final total down from the unofficial peak at 112, at which the toll of the catastrophe was placed late last night.

The list of injured stood at 134 with fourteen listed as "seriously injured."

The official list, according to the authorities, contained the names of all those whose bodies had been recovered up to midnight from the ruins left when the roof of the theater, overwhelmed with snow, collapsed on the audience which had braved the Saturday night storm to witness the comedy featured on the evening program.

Believe All Bodies Found.
The volunteer workers, including police, firemen, marines, and cavalry from Fort Myer, had practically concluded their search of the wreckage at midnight, the only portion remaining to be searched being a far corner in which it was not expected additional bodies would be found.

Family groups predominated in the audience which gathered Saturday night at the Knickerbocker, one of the newest and largest of the capital's motion picture houses, and rated as one of the most exclusive, drawing its patronage from the northwest residential section in the vicinity of upper Connecticut avenue.

Only One Scents Danger in Time.
It was upon these that the roof, backed by tons of wet snow, plummeted with barely a whispered warning. In the entire audience but one person was found who had become aware of impending doom in time to reach an exit, although a number of others worked their way to safety through scant openings in the wreckage.

From his seat well forward on the main floor he reared for the doors at the back. A great blast of air expelled as the roof came down hurled him out through the doorway to safety.

Grouped at Dangerous Point.
Most of the bodies were recovered from the floor of the pit beneath the wreckage of the balcony or from the front of the balcony itself. Following the rule of motion picture audiences, and with an almost empty house to pick from, those on the main floor had grouped themselves in the rows of seats just below the front of the balcony. The front and back rows were almost empty.

At the point they had chosen the danger proved to be just double. Few of those seated there could have escaped. Those farther back on the main floor probably all escaped. The beams that supported the back end of the balcony did not get their clutch on the wall. The wide sweep of seats they supported tilted down until the wreckage below took the weight of the front end, then stood covering the back rows of the main floor like a tent.

No Wood in Structure.
The orchestra leader, Oreste, E. Matello, and several members of the orchestra were killed. Others seated near the stage escaped with injuries more or less serious. The stage broke the full force of the fall before the tangled debris reached them.

The front rows of the balcony were ground to a twisted mass of ruin in the fall. There was no wood in the structure. It was all steel and concrete, but the enormous weight of the balcony was itself sufficient to wind the tortured beams into fantastic shapes.

Firemen and Troops Rush to Scene.
Firemen fought their way through the heaping snowdrifts in answer to a general alarm. Police patrols filled with men churned and skidded through the white muck and, in answer to a summons, marines from the barracks clear across the city came at double time, panting, through the heavy fog.

At Fort Meyer, across the river, the cavalry was turned out and started in truck loads to the rescue, only to find roads blocked with snow. The men shoveled their way frantically, but finally four mule teams from the fort and from the engineer barracks were called on.

At the scene of the disaster there was wild confusion for a time. Those who first made their way to the auditorium doors saw before them a dim, mysterious heap of wreckage faintly lighted by a string of colored electric lights on the stage that still stood intact, and by the reflected glow from the leaden skies above the void where the roof had been.

Minute by minute the crowds about the door thickened. The crash of the falling roof had drawn many, some who had relatives in that mass of ruin and melting snow inside. The clang of fire apparatus brought other hundreds and until the marines came panting up, the police were powerless to fight off the crowd.

Rescue Difficult and Dangerous.

Firemen plunged into the wreckage with lanterns. Men with electric torches came from all sides to aid. And it was a daunting task they faced. They stood on the debris they must lift to reach those dead or dying below.

With infinite care the rescuers began work. Every beam they touched must let another mass of concrete down if it was moved too swiftly. There were some groans in the darkness below, and no one knew how many men, women, and children had been crushed or trapped there. The huge slabs of the concrete from the roof, torn from their supporting steel girders, stood in crazy attitudes. A touch might send them toppling.

But against every difficulty the soldiers and sailors, firemen and police, and citizens toiled desperately, and a stream of dead and injured began slowly to trickle out through the doorways. Nearly every house and store in the vicinity became a rescue station. Ambulances and private machines gathered up the injured as they were brought out.

Curtain of Night Lifts.

Meanwhile, all Washington, it seemed, was heading for the scene. With street cars stopped, every street was black with strings of people stumbling over the banked snow. They tramped from every corner of the city and the soldiers and police held rigid lines about the theater to keep them back.

As daylight came the task became easier. Engineer officers from the army could see what must be done. They traced each twisted beam and saw where it would be safe to cut and where a steel girder might be dragged out of the pile with safety to those below.

Up the long path, trodden through heavy snow, that ran from the impromptu morgue to the Knickerbocker, struggled the stretcher squads, army and navy men mostly.

Gradually the work was organized. Some of the men who had worked all night were relieved by comrades to sleep and prepare for another night of it. New police and fire crews came in.

As the gas jets came into play, brilliant spurts of flame lighted the scene. Showers of sparks rose as the live heat bit through inches of steel to free another tangle. High on the walls sailors and soldiers perched on hanging beams or in window ledges to cut loose the end of a girder and let it be dragged away. Outside the piles of debris rose steadily on both streets.

A pitiful stream of mangled bodies,

TRAGEDY, HORROR, HEROISM, BLENDED IN THEATER FALL

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—(Special.)—One of the most remarkable rescues at the scene of the Knickerbocker theater accident was that of Scott Montgomery, who was taken out at 8:20 o'clock this morning, after having been pinned beneath an iron girder for more than eleven hours. He died four hours later at Walter Reed hospital, however. He was given morphine while under the wreckage by a physician who had to crawl quite a distance to him. Miss Veronica Murphy of 1860 California street, whom Montgomery accompanied to the theater, also is among the dead.

Albert G. Bushler of Washington gave his own life that others might live. He could have been taken from the debris fully an hour before he was, but he directed the rescuers to aid others whom he declared more seriously hurt than he. He died after he was taken from the building.

A 5-year-old girl was found unhurt, seated between the bodies of two dead women. The child's life evidently was saved by falling between the seats and the protection given her by the two women who were killed by her side.

Sleeping peacefully beneath the debris, two little girls, aged four and six, were found by rescuers, ten hours after the playhouse roof had fallen in. Apparently neither was badly hurt.

Miss Caroline Upshaw, niece of Representative Upshaw of Georgia, had one foot cut off and the other so badly mangled that it will have to be amputated. Ten college students, living at the E. A. E. fraternity house at 3320 18th street, have volunteered their services for blood transfusion, which may be necessary to Miss Upshaw's recovery.

Dead and living, flowed all that night and yesterday into the lower rooms of a Christian Science church a few hundred yards away.

At the first word of the disaster, the place was thrown open to those stricken folk, and the hundreds of others who came to search for their dead or injured. And as the full weight of the losses became known, the dead monopolized the space, crowding the injured in the all too small rooms.

It was merely a first aid station for those taken crushed but alive from the wreckage. They were carried in stretchers over the slippery pavement with lines of soldiers keeping the crowds back.

Doctors and nurses and women eager to bring their sympathy and cheer to the suffering or bereaved waited in the church. They tenderly washed away the gray dust of the crumpled concrete, the grime and caked blood, blackened sometimes by hours of waiting pinned under the debris until the rescuers cut the victim loose. Bandages were applied and then the injured were whisked away to hospital or home.

Seeking the Dread Assurance.

But the dead lay long in the double rows in which they stretched across the floor, lay until a tearful relative or friend, a husband, or wife, or father or mother, recognized the crushed form at last. Up and down those aisles of dead walked those whose fears had drawn them here because of some one missing in the family circle.

Women already weeping in certainty of what they must find sooner or later beneath the kindly blankets that shielded the sleepers, made the journey of sorrow many times before they found what they sought. Men with tense faces leaned to draw back the coverings, and then gasp with short-lived relief as they moved on to the next huddled form.

Some of these seekers came with the dirt and grime of the wreckage upon them still, for they had passed through the crash of the roof and balcony only to leave a dear one dead in the tangled mass. They had worked hours with the rescuers to find that one, only to turn now and then for a hurried trip to the chamber of death.

Eleven Married Couples Perish.

Eleven times death struck down husband and wife, side by side. They died as they had sat to see the swift picturing of the film. But by other times it was only the wife or the husband who perished and the survivor must make the terrible pilgrimage of recognition in the grim chamber of the dead.

Children were sparingly few. Usually the big theater in its earlier hours of a Saturday night has been the gathering place of a host of youngsters, but the storm kept most of the little folk at home that night.

INSTINCT GAINED IN COAL MINES SAVES HIS LIFE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—(By the Associated Press).—Long experience in coal mines enabled W. H. Morris, a 48-year-old retired coal mine manager of Buckhannon, W. Va., to escape from the death trap in the center of the Knickerbocker.

"I was in the eighth row from the front," Mr. Morris said, today, "when I heard a crack, a sort of ripping sound, exactly like that which the slate roof of a coal mine makes when it is going to let go. It was more instinct than anything else that brought me to my feet with one thought flashing through my mind: 'I can beat that fall to the outside.'"

"As I came into the aisle I saw the orchestra leader's baton waving with the music and a little white cloud coming down above his head. Then I ran up the aisle, with the roof cracking and falling above me. As I got to the door the stuff began to hit me in a wave of a wind from behind, which literally fung me through the door and across the lobby on to the sidewalk."

Christian Scientists Name New Editors for Papers

Boston, Mass., Jan. 29.—The directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, announced tonight that acting under the manual of the Christian Science church they had elected Willis J. Abbot and Albert Field Gilmore, both of New York, as editors of the Christian Science publications, and that the newly appointed trustees of the Christian Science Publishing society had accepted the elections. Mr. Abbot was chosen editor of the Christian Science Monitor, a daily, and Mr. Gilmore editor of the monthly publications, the Christian Science Journal, Christian Science Sentinel, Le Herault [French], and Der Herold [German].

WHEN you give a child an egg you give it all the egg—not just the yolk alone. Do the same with wheat. Whole wheat is nature's most complete food. Give your child Ralston, the whole wheat food, and you give the youngster all the vitamins and bone and muscle building elements of wheat that growing bodies need. You get all the flavor, too, which gives Ralston the taste children love.

Here's an extra fine, good looking, bench-made shoe. You can bank on the quality; we guarantee it. Comes in Australian kangaroo; also black, tan or mahogany calfskin; all sizes, from the narrowest to the very widest, always in stock.

So if you don't know us, inquire about us from those who do.

You'll find that we want our customers satisfied just as much as they themselves want satisfaction.

Wear, comfort and good value must be in every pair of shoes we sell, or we want them returned.

You'll find your style here no matter what your preference may be, for we have 50,000 pairs to select from. Every pair of shoes in the store has been reduced in price.

Prices are $4.85, $5.85, $6.85, $7.85, $8.85—the lowest possible, consistent with fine quality. We are taking a mighty small profit at these reduced prices.

If you want to lay in some good shoes for immediate or future wear and save money on them, now is the time to do it.

CRASH OF DEATH TOLD IN DETAIL BY CONGRESSMAN

Life Saved by Balcony
Seat, He Says.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—An avalanche of broken plaster, bricks, snow, splintered wooden and twisted beams, catapulting upon the audience while the orchestra played and a comedy film ground out, is the description of the Knickerbocker theater disaster given today by Representative John H. Smithwick of Pensacola, Fla. He was in the balcony of the theater when the roof collapsed under its weight of snow, and escaped unaided—just how he cannot recall—with more or less serious hurts.

"The orchestra was playing beautiful music and a comic film was running," said Mr. Smithwick, lying in his bed, bandaged and with his face and hands covered with dirt. "Suddenly there was a sharp crack. I looked up and saw a great fissure running across the ceiling. It was right over my head. I instantly realized what was happening. The plaster began to fall, dropping down in large and small chunks all over the theater. It seemed to me."

Pinned Under Seat.
"While I was looking up, a great piece right over my head started to fall. I ducked, crouching, involuntarily, I suppose, down between the seats. The piece struck the seat right where I had been sitting. The force was broken by the seat, but it pinned me down where I was crouching. The noise was awful. It was a great, tremendous roar. It was simply indescribable. I never can forget it."

"In the midst of the roaring were shrieks and cries of women and children and a few shouts of men. There were cries for help, groans, and, worst of all, the moans of those in terrible pain. It was awful. I can't describe it. I see it all the time, those poor children and men and women crying and groaning there."

Balcony Crashes Down.
"There were only a few of us in the balcony. Luckily there weren't more. The balcony gave way and crashed, soon after the ceiling began to fall, on those on the lower floor. They were caught the worst. We in the balcony were more fortunate."

"I guess there was a lapse of maybe twenty seconds, hardly more, before the balcony fell. Funny, but it spun around, kind of twisted, as its supports gave way and it swung down on those below. It didn't go straight down, just kind of slid sideways and slanting. I suppose from the weight of the debris that had fallen on its upstairs."

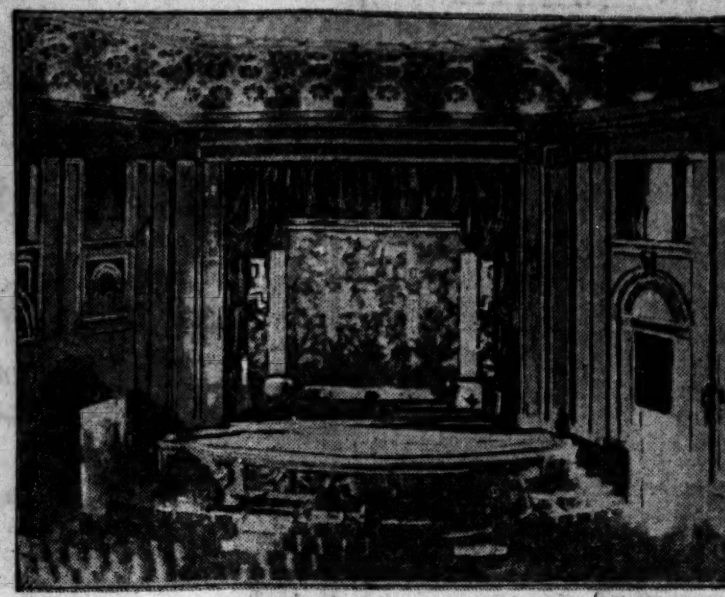

"I don't know how I got out from where I was crouching under that chunk of plaster that had fallen on me. I really believe it weighed all of 400 pounds. And I think I moved that plaster with my shoulders."

Finally Reaches Doors.
"Anyway, I crawled out between the seats to where I saw a small hole in the plaster above. I forced myself up through that hole, wiggling and shoving. Then I crawled out over the snow and plaster, over the tangled debris, to the doors on the 18th street side."

"Across the aisle from me when the crash came was a little fellow—I never saw him again, and I wonder if he is dead—who laughed and roared at every especially funny part of the film. I

CHAUNCEY C. BRAINERD, [Correspondent of Brooklyn Eagle, dead.]
L. A. VERNE SPROUL, Chicago, page in house, killed.
E. H. SHAUGHNESSY, of Chicago, assistant to postmaster general, former member of congress, dead.
DR. A. J. BARCHFELD, nephew of congressman killed.

DEATH TOLL IN DISASTERS OF THEATERS HEAVY

New York, Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Following are some of the accidents in American theaters that resulted in heavy death lists in the past twenty-five years:

Nov. 5, 1898.—Wonderland theater, Detroit, collapsed; fifteen lives lost.
Nov. 6, 1901.—Klondyke theater, Harley, Wis., burned; ten killed.
Dec. 30, 1903.—Iroquois theater, Chicago, burned; 575 persons killed.
Jan. 12, 1908.—Rhodes theater, Boyertown, Pa., burned; 169 killed.
Dec. 25, 1913.—Panic in theater, Calumet, Mich.; 72 killed.
May 10, 1916.—Wallacetown, Va.; 25 killed.
Nov. 14, 1920.—Panic in moving picture house, Catherine street, Manhattan; 7 children trampled to death.
Nov. 28, 1921.—Fire in Rialto theater, New Haven, Conn.; six killed.

D. C. OFFICIALS TO PROBE COLLAPSE OF BIG THEATER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—Investigation of the collapse of the Knickerbocker theater roof was ordered today by the District of Columbia board of commissioners, the governing body of the city of Washington.
Senator Capper, of Kansas, a member of the senate district of Columbia committee, announced tonight that, as soon as the senate reconvened, he would introduce a resolution calling for an investigation of the disaster and also of all large building construction in Washington since the beginning of the war.

At the same time orders went out to close all theaters until the snow had been cleared from the roofs and inspectors had made an examination of the structures.

CHICAGO FAMILY IS ALMOST WIPED OUT IN DISASTER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—A Chicago family of five—that of Oscar G. Kanston—was almost wiped out by the disaster. The only survivor was Grant Kanston, 3 years old, who was slightly injured.

Mr. Kanston, who is an accountant in the war department, his wife, their 9 year old daughter Ailyn, and their 15 year old daughter Dorothy, are dead. The Kanstons came to Washington from Chicago only a few months ago.

Postal Official Injured.
Second Assistant Postmaster General E. H. Shaughnessy of Chicago, his wife, and two daughters were all seriously injured.

Assistant Postmaster General Shaughnessy was first listed among the missing, after his wife and two daughters had been taken from the theater wreckage to the emergency hospital. Later it was discovered that he had been rescued from the building during the night and rushed to Walter Reed hospital, where his condition is serious. Mr. Shaughnessy sustained a fracture of the leg and internal injuries. He has undergone three blood transfusions.

Mrs. Shaughnessy suffered several broken ribs, lacerations, and bruises. Myrtle Shaughnessy, so far as could be ascertained, sustained no broken bones, but is suffering from severe bruises and shock, and Ruth Shaughnessy, 10, had both arms broken.

Nephew of Congressman Killed.
Laverne Sproul, nephew of Congressman Sproul and son of Ervine E. Sproul, 7220 Union avenue, is among the killed. His body was identified by Congressman Sproul late today, after search for it had been in progress many hours, the lad having failed to return home last night.

Young Sproul, who was 17 years old, came to Washington four months ago to serve as a page in the house of representatives. He made his home with his uncle. The boy went to the theater last night with Cutler Laflin of Mass.

chusetts, a fellow page in the house, who also met death.

Congressman Sproul plans to leave for Chicago tomorrow with the body. Will H. Hays recalls Al. Pueblo, Colo., Jan. 29.—Dr. Hubert Work, first assistant postmaster general, announced tonight that he would leave tonight for Washington, D. C., in response to a telephone message from Postmaster General Will H. Hays. Dr. Work said Mr. Hays requested him to return because of the serious injuries sustained by Edward H. Shaughnessy.

PARKER HIGH ATHLETE.
Laverne Sproul, before going to Washington several months ago, attended Parker High school and played on both the basketball and football teams.

EASTERN COAST SPENDS SUNDAY BATTLING SNOW

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—Buried under from one to more than two feet of snow by one of the most severe storms in several decades the middle Atlantic section spent Sunday in vain but mostly vain efforts to resume the activities, suspended Friday night when the storm swept up from the south.

The storm, described by the weather bureau as the worst in twenty-three years, tonight had passed out to sea, and its center was said to be some distance north-northeast of Bermuda, but in its wake from North Carolina to southern New England and from the coast to the Allegheny mountains all was buried under a snow blanket. Two more storms are reported rushing on to the coast from the west.

Capital Center of Storm.
Washington was the center of the storm. Daybreak found the city with out any sort of street car service, its streets blocked to impassability with snow, its suburbs completely cut off, deliveries of bread, milk, and other perishable foodstuffs greatly curtailed, and many buildings endangered by the load of snow. The hours of Sunday were spent in attempts to restore a semblance of normal conditions, and though aided by favorable weather—sunshine and thawing temperature—the city tonight was still in the grip of the storm.

All indications in Washington tonight were that even with the favorable weather forecast it would be days before normal conditions were restored.

California Has Snow.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 29.—California today received the most widely distributed snowfall in many years. A cold north wind whipping in off the ocean and down over the northern mountains into the valleys brought rain that turned to snow in many localities, some of which had not had so heavy a fall in thirty years. Los Angeles and other southern points, and San Francisco, shared furies. Around San Francisco the fall was the first in six years, and varied from a trace in San Francisco to two or three inches in Berkeley and Oakland.

100% Foot Comfort at 25% Off the Price!

McNiff again departs radically from accepted custom in announcing custom-made footwear at 25% off the top price. Still, this shop always aims toward progressiveness, for it has not only stepped ahead in finer footwear, but advertises and tells the town about it!

But there is this old-established custom here that never will depart—the use of finest leathers—the work of skillful men.

Normally this next month is quiet, but this special discount will keep our large force not merely intact, but exceedingly busy. So we'd like to have some of you come in early!

REROUTING OF SURFACE CARS NOW IN EFFECT

Sabbath slackness in traffic yesterday served the Chicago Surface lines in the effort to initiate rerouting of cars in the loop on twelve lines without confusion. Car crews familiarized themselves with the new system.

Officials said the day's operation under the rearrangement of downtown routes strengthened their belief that many benefits will accrue from the change. The aim is to substitute right-hand for left-hand turns where possible and to eliminate many straight crossings and interlocking of route loops in the downtown district.

ARMS PROBLEMS MAY BE SOLVED BY WEEK'S END

Far East Questions Are Blocking Conference.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—The conference on the limitation of armaments will resume its deliberations tomorrow with its leaders expecting to reach a conclusion of the negotiations by the end of the week. The Shantung matter and the question of including the Japanese in the islands in the agreement to maintain the status quo of Pacific island fortifications are still blocking the way to a speedy windup of the conference. Chinese delegates tonight predicted a settlement of the Shantung question this week, although not being so confident as hitherto that the agreement would be reached tomorrow. When Shantung is settled Japan is expected to come through with an agreement on the fortifications question.

Treaties to Senate Speedily.

President Harding takes no stock in the opinion, which has been heard frequently from Capitol hill in the last two weeks, that the treaties resulting from the Washington conference should not be submitted to the senate for some time after the close of negotiations because of the mass of domestic legislation pending. The President intends to send the treaties to the senate very shortly after the end of the conference.

The White House does not share the opinion that the treaties will give rise to a prolonged and heated debate. The President expects the treaties to be ratified in short order. He believes that the country is behind the work of the American delegation and that the conference will be regarded as a marked success.

Sees Opposition Fall.

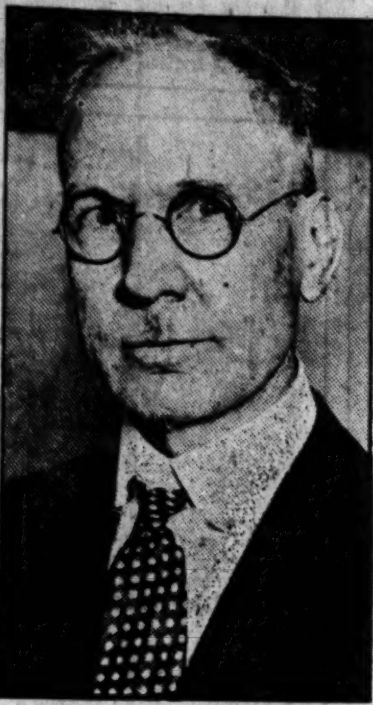

Mr. Harding cannot conceive of any successful opposition to the naval limitation treaty. He regards it as representing the wishes of the people of the United States. As for the Pacific treaty, he does not consider that it commits this country to anything contrary to its traditional policy, but that it represents an arrangement conducive to peace in the far east.

In connection with the wish of the President for speedy action on the treaties, it is interesting to note that it is the attitude of some of the foreign delegates that their countries should await American action before ratifying the arrangements now being reached. That means that if the senate fails to ratify them, foreign parliaments will probably never consider them.

PITTSBURGH PLUS' HEARING TODAY IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 29.—The "Pittsburgh plus" case, the result of which will have a far reaching effect on the nation's steel industry, will come up for hearing here tomorrow before Examiner John Bennett of the federal trade commission. The examination, which is expected to last several days, is the first of a series to be held in various industrial centers of the middle west.

CHITAKNUCKLES TO JAP DEMANDS IN NEW PARLEY

BY RODERICK MATHESON.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
TOKIO, Jan. 29.—Failure of the purport-exposures by the Chita delegates at Washington plus the apparent change of front by Moscow in its acceptance of an invitation to the Genoa conference had a humbling effect on the Chita delegates at the Dairen conference. It now is reported a trade agreement practically is ready for signature.

According to dispatches from Dairen the agreement provides:

1. Pending revision of the expired Russo-Japanese fishery treaty a protocol shall be concluded.

2. Security of life and property of resident foreigners is absolutely guaranteed.

3. Necessary land for carrying out enterprises may be leased to resident foreigners for a term of thirty-six years.

4. At Vladivostok the forts shall be dismantled and the port thrown open to all trade.

5. The mines of Russia in the far east shall be open to foreign investment and management; exception may be made for the regulation concerning the hire only of Russian laborers.

6. Regarding transportation and timber investment and management foreign residents shall be recognized; there shall be no restrictions on utilization of the means of communication.

7. For individual trading the constitution of the Far Eastern republic shall be observed in principle, but ownership by foreigners shall be fully organized with no compulsory commandering of their property.

8. The Far Eastern republic absolutely refrains from all propaganda inimical to the peace and order of the Japanese empire.

LONDON AGREES TO RECOGNIZE EGYPT AS FREE

Recalls Allenby to Draft Agreement.

BY OTIS SWIFT.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]
LONDON, Jan. 29.—Before common next week the government intends to set on foot a settlement of the Egyptian question. Lord Allenby has been summoned from Egypt to give advice and information to the foreign office in the drafting of a bill which will recognize Egypt as a sovereign state. The foreign office disclosed these plans today with the issuance of the following statement:

"There appears to be an impression in some quarters that Great Britain has abandoned or is about to abandon her liberal attitude toward Egyptian aspirations, and that she desires to make use of her special position in Egypt to maintain a political and administrative status there which would be incompatible with the freedom she has declared her willingness to recognize."

Will End Protectorate.

"This is not the case. The policy of his majesty's government, both during and since the Adly mission to England, has been founded on well defined ideas. While unwilling to cede to disorder or violence what they are prepared to grant on its own merits, his majesty's representatives have explicitly stated their readiness to invite parliament to terminate the protectorate declared in 1914, to recognize the existence of Egypt as a sovereign state, and to agree to a constitution providing an Egyptian parliament and the reestablishment on an Egyptian ministry of foreign affairs, as soon as they are satisfied regarding the following conditions, which they regard as vital to the interest of both Egypt and the British empire."

Guarantees Demanded.

"They must have full effective guarantees:

"1. That imperial communications, to which Egypt is essential, are assured."

"2. That Great Britain retains both the right and power to afford that protection to foreign communities in Egypt which the governments of those people look to her to supply; and,

"3. That Egypt is safeguarded against all foreign interference or aggression, direct or indirect."

Lord Allenby, high commissioner of Egypt, has been summoned to England to report on the general situation there, as well as his communications with Egyptian leaders regarding the country's future government."

POLICE SHAKEUP HITS 88; REASON VEILED BY CHIEF

Secrecy cloaks the issuance of an order last night by Chief Fitzmorris transferring thirteen sergeants, seventy-four patrolmen, and one police matron. Some are sent from preferred posts to the fog belt, while others are advanced.

The only reason the chief would give was that "it's for the good of the service, and, in most instances the transfers were made at the request of commanding officers." However, there is much speculation in police circles the prevailing belief being that personal influence has been exerted in some cases.

One of the longest of the long distance transfers is that of a patrolman—Herman Stok, who is said to hold the department record. He has been, since his last transfer, at the Lawn-dale station, in the extreme southwestern part of the city. He now goes to Hegewisch, in the extreme southeastern. In fact, if he gets on the wrong side of the street while pacing one part of his beat, he will be walking in Indiana.

ESCAPES 1 COP, BUT RUNS INTO STATION OF 'EM

Take it from Fred Miller, 1624 Warren avenue, when you decide to escape from an officer of the law be sure you're on the right route before you go ahead.

Miller was stopped last night by Policeman Charles Bennett of the first precinct, near the Hotel Sherman. Bennett started to ask him who and what he was. Miller started to run. Bennett gave chase, firing his revolver into the air. Miller was the faster runner. He was a block ahead of Bennett, when he turned into a doorway and ran into the arms of a roomful of police. He had run into the first precinct station. I. W. W. literature was found in his possession.

MRS. FILMAN, YOUR HUSBAND DENIES HE IS MISSING

Thomas M. Filman is not missing, he was not missing and he will not be missing. Furthermore, he wants the world to know it, including his wife from whom he says he has been separated for three years. It was upon her request that THE TRIBUNE on Sunday morning printed a story of his disappearance.

"Here I am," said Mr. Filman yesterday, as he walked into THE TRIBUNE office. "My wife gave you that information to cause me annoyance. I am an accountant for the P. F. Volland company and when an accountant is missing the public generally supposes a financial shortage is responsible. On the advice of my physician I took the week end off from my employment but have been in hourly touch with the firm. I have not been missing since Monday and I did not have a large sum of money on my person when I did or did not disappear."

43 MEN TAKEN IN RAID.
Forty-three men were arrested in a raid yesterday on the Park Smoke Shop, 321 East 51st street. Gambling paraphernalia was seized.

CAN STOP SALE OF GUNS BY MAIL, LAWYERS ASSERT

Can a Chicagoan purchasing a revolver or pistol from a New York mail order house be prosecuted? Can the owners of the mail order house, even if located in another city, be arrested for sending guns to Chicago? And can mail order houses in Chicago sending guns to other cities and states be indicted and placed on trial here?

TRIBUNE reporters yesterday asked this question of a number of authorities on constitutional law. Opinion differed; but by far the majority answered "yes" to all three.

Here's the way Attorney J. J. McCarthy, who has offices in the Chicago Title and Trust company building, explains it:

"Nearly all of the mail order houses have been informed by their attorneys that the second amendment to the United States constitution, which gives the right to bear arms to all citizens, protects them. This is not so.

States can prosecute.

"States still have the right to make further legislation restricting the sale of guns—so the amendment applies only to federal territory.

"The state's attorney here can in-

ASSISTANCE ASKED FOR INSTITUTIONAL HOMES IN AUSTRIA

Dr. Illes Adler, chief rabbi of Budapest, spoke yesterday at the B. D. O. Z. Humboldt boulevard temple in behalf of Hungarian institutional homes.

"Founding asylums and old people's homes need help, moral as well as financial," said Dr. Adler. "The Hungarians are in a desperate straits, and they can no longer exist without aid."

Dr. Adler declared that a man earning 5,000 crowns a month had only money enough to buy bread and potatoes. Nothing was left for other foods or for clothing.

dict the heads of any New York mail order house who send guns to Chicago. He can't extradite them; but if they ever come into the state the capias can then be served.

"But under police regulations there is still another law—the charge of conspiracy, wherein not only the sender but the recipient of the gun can be indicted for conspiracy to violate a state statute—at least that is my opinion. The whole matter would have to be thrashed out in court, of course."

Advocate Federal Law.

Federal legislation, such as the proposed Shields act, which would "suppress the sale of pistols, revolvers, and other firearms of like form, size and description, commonly used in the commission of felonious homicides and assaults and to provide punishment for violations of the provisions of the same" is advocated by other members of the Chicago bar, reporters found.

These include the twenty judges of the superior court who are actively supporting the measure, which is now before a senate committee.

Still others advocate the passage of either state or national legislation prohibiting the manufacture or impor-

Lead Gotham Idea.

That the effect of the Sullivan law prohibiting "gun toting" in New York City—until the penalty was changed from a felony to a misdemeanor—was to materially reduce the number of homicides there is affirmed by numerous New York officials.

Judge Holt in the United States district court last week declared: "The effect of the Sullivan law against pistol carrying was more than beneficial. Recently, however, we have found it nullified through the fact that crooks can go into New Jersey and purchase all the guns they want to."

"Carrying concealed weapons is purely modern, and dates from the invention of the revolver. The right to bear arms was granted as a defense against Indians and wild beasts."

"The great majority of our appalling homicides in the United States are made possible, not because the murderer has a pistol, but because it is so easy for him to get one," George P. Le Brun, secretary of the League for the Conservation of Human Life, asserts.

KIMBALL

—triumphs in truth of tone

TONE is the one outstanding qualification that determines the master musician's preference for a musical instrument. The KIMBALL triumphs in "truth of tone"—and supplements its superiority in this respect by its beauty of design, fine workmanship and mechanical excellence which are representative of quality.

All KIMBALL instruments are sold under the KIMBALL one-price policy, which is every purchaser's assurance of the same satisfying KIMBALL value.

KIMBALL "Grands" are distinguished by a rare truth of tone; they are made in four sizes, including the Bijou, or "little grand." The records of famous pianists are beautifully played by KIMBALL Reproducing Pianos—the artist's identical rendition.

KIMBALL Upright and Player Pianos, in common with all other instruments bearing the KIMBALL name, are marvelous in the sweetness of their tonal qualities.

KIMBALL Phonosonome Player Pianos present a new conception of efficiency in phrasing control; they permit the performer to control the interpretation of the full 88 note scale—even to tracing the entire melody of the composition he is playing.

KIMBALL Pipe Organs are the ultimate in organ manufacture; their ability to blend tone is a revelation to the listener.

KIMBALL Phonographs faithfully reproduce the music of every make of record in every size. To own one is to bring the finest of the world's music into the circle of your own home.

Recent price reductions are now in effect on the complete line of KIMBALL musical instruments.

ITALIAN WILL BE NEXT POPE, MERCIER SAYS

Belgian Primate Scoffs at His Own Chances.

ROME, Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—The next pope is certain to be an Italian, according to a statement made today by Cardinal Mercier of Belgium. He scoffed at the idea that he might be chosen.

"There is no need to indulge in vain conjectures or to count the votes in advance," said the cardinal, "but one must wait the decrees of Providence, and Providence for the last five centuries has ruled that the supreme pontiff should be an Italian."

"Forgive your enemies," said the cardinal in response to a query whether he favored closer relations between the Vatican and the Quirinal.

"The Lord's Prayer," the cardinal added, "says, 'forgive us as we forgive those who trespass against us.' The present does not seem a favorable moment for reaction."

The correspondent asked the cardinal whether in his mention of the Lord's Prayer he included Belgium's late war enemies.

"The Lord does not appear to have made any distinction," replied the cardinal. "He simply says, 'Forgive those who have trespassed against us.'"

Then, after a pause, the cardinal's face took on a serious expression.

MRS. HUCK ASPIRANT FOR CONGRESS ON REPUBLICAN TICKET

"Because," said Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck yesterday, "because some of the newspapers have stated that I am not known."

Mrs. Huck is a Republican and the daughter of the late Congressman William E. Mason. The Republican candidate she will compete with at the primaries are Henry R. Rathbone, former Congressman George Edmund Foss and Richard Yates, present congressman.

"Yes," he said, "I am sure that includes our former enemies."

MANY ATTEND MASSES

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
ROME, Jan. 29.—The ancient churches of Rome were filled with devout mourners from every station of life today. They gathered to attend requiem mass for the late Pope Benedict XV.

At Santa Maria Maggiore, one of the most beautiful churches in Italy and a majestic symbol of Christianity since the fourth century, the famous choir and organ rendered hymns during a special service.

Before the ruins of the Diocletian baths limousines and stylish four-handers were parked while their owners, representing Rome's aristocracy, and many high prelates, participated in the services in Santa Maria degli Angeli church, which is built within the ruins of the baths.

While there has been some toning down of the political talk in connection with outside influences bringing pressure to bear on the Vatican for the election of a new pope favorable to their respective interests, Popolo Romano today accuses the Masons of trying to bring about the election of a supporter of the policies of Pius X. Failure to carry out Benedict's plans for reconciliation with the Italian government will strengthen the political opponents of the Catholic party, it is claimed. The Masons, Popolo Romano says, are exerting influence through the heads of various governments.

Cardinal La Fontaine as a compromise candidate is now regarded as the most likely successor to Benedict.

JOHN D. JR. TELLS HIS BIBLE CLASS EVILS OF RICHES

New York, Jan. 29.—[Special.]—John D. Rockefeller Jr. preached a sermon in the Fifth Avenue Baptist church today. It was his first public utterance since his return from China, and delivered on the occasion of his forty-eighth birthday. The Bible class, which he founded just twenty-five years ago, gave his wife a corsage bouquet of violets at the close of his address on "A Man's Ideals." With her in the balcony sat her daughter and sons.

The text was that which adjures one not to lay up treasures on earth, but rather in heaven, where "neither moth nor rust doth corrupt," and the burden of the speech was the great responsibility which wealth brings to a man.

"I can tell you in five minutes how much harm a man can do with $500,000," said Mr. Rockefeller, and he deplored unwise philanthropy. "Money has value only when converted into useful service. And success consists in doing common things uncommonly well. When my father was paying $1 a week for lodging he gave 5 cents a week for foreign missions and 5 cents a week to the poor. His employer called him the best bookkeeper he ever had, and said if John had signed a voucher he knew the goods had been delivered."

Then he prayed that his pupils and himself might have "a religion interwoven with their work at the desk, in the factory, in the store, in the classroom, and might always during Bible class hour be receptive to the truth."

How to Start Advertising!!

Practically every enterprise, whether it be manufacturing, financial or professional, is giving thought to advertising and how to apply it to its specific business. Many of these have no established advertising department that could analyze ways and means and make reliable recommendations.

All who are desirous of investigating advertising in its many phases will do well to remember that here is an established, fully equipped and manned organization which may be consulted for opinion of the advertising opportunity, preliminary procedure, estimates and general information.

Your trade-name, trade-marks, package, distribution plan and advertising are merchandising problems to which we can bring a remarkable experience. We welcome inquiry.

THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR CHICAGO

1—Build the Subway Now.

THE BUILDING SITUATION.

Refusal of the building trades council leaders to participate in the conference between Judge Landis and the building trades employers and the demand of the union leaders that the judge resign as arbiter in the dispute on wages and working rules require a showdown between the unions and the public.

Why do the unions want Judge Landis to resign? Do they question his honesty? Do they question his intelligence? Do they question his good faith? Do they question his liberalism? Do they question his well earned reputation for sympathy and understanding of the position and rights of the workingman? They must answer these questions satisfactorily before they can hope for any strong support of public opinion for their position.

If they answer them in the affirmative they can properly be required to tell why they did not take this position before they first approved Judge Landis as an arbiter. Also they will have to answer to a firmly founded and widespread contrary opinion built up in Chicago through years of observation of the work and character of Judge Landis. The public knows, and will maintain, that Judge Landis is honest, intelligent, liberal, and sympathetic toward the workingman or toward any other honest man.

If the unions answer these questions in the negative, if they do not question the judge's honesty, intelligence and fairness, and still demand his resignation, they admit that they do not want a fair arbitration, but a prejudiced decision which will give them what they want, regardless of its effect upon the public, upon business, upon potential building owners, or upon rent payers.

In either event it can hardly mean less than a fight, and a fight in which the weight of public sympathy will be with itself; that is, with the business men, the manufacturers, the general industrial workers, the potential building owners, the rent payers, and with Judge Landis, rather than with the building trades unions which seek to take toll from all these through an umpire prejudiced in favor of the unions.

If Judge Landis were to resign his task, the whole controversy would be thrown back into the chaos from which he sought to extract it. Since he remains on the job, it means that, being opposed by the union leaders, his findings will have to be energetically supported. As expensive and damaging to the future of Chicago as such a battle would be, it seems that there can be no better time for fighting it out than the present. Judge Landis will have the rent payers of Chicago back of him, and they form no feeble army.

MAKING ICELAND SAFE FOR PROHIBITION.

The Anti-Saloon league has adopted a resolution deploring the action of Spain in boycotting fish from Iceland and asking the American government to take advantage of the present cordial relations of the United States and Spain and obtain a raising of the embargo.

Iceland has adopted prohibition and Spain cannot export wines to it. Therefore the retaliation, barring Icelandic fish. We would sympathize with any people who had economic pressure brought on them to make them drink when they did not want to. No liberalism would welcome any such or any other imposition of habits by force. Nevertheless it may be awkward for the American government to intervene. It seems so peculiarly Spain's own business that even the American seal for regulation seems irregular when it demands that Spanish grape growers and wine makers and exporters and the Spanish people generally cut Icelandic fish whether they want to or not.

The Spanish people are bringing economic pressure on the Icelanders to make them do what the Anti-Saloon league thinks is an immoral thing, but the American government is asked to bring moral, and any other, pressure upon the Spanish people to make them do what they think is an unbecoming thing—to trade with a people who are hurting their own trade.

Possibly we had better keep out of this field of international activity. The league's other suggestion is a better one—that prohibition United States buy all the fish of prohibition Iceland. It is not clear whether this is to be done by government appropriation or whether each consistent prohibitionist in this country shall stock up on pickled, dried and canned fish, and eat Iceland into a state of hitherto unknown prosperity. The diet provokes a thirst.

We might raise the deuce by refusing to have any trade relations with a drinking nation. Where it would be raised chiefly we do not know. Probably it would be general. We might tell the Germans that if they gave up beer and wine we would apply the money the allies owe us to paying the first installments on the reparations. The French, Belgians, and British could consider themselves paid for several years ahead and by that time the money Germany saved by not drinking would square the accounts in short order. They might also be given a discount on our products if they adopted prohibition and might have our tariffs modified for them. There is a chance to save a nation.

Then we might refuse to have diplomatic or other dealings with a nation which continued to drink. Arthur Balfour could not come over here and tempt us any more by holding a glass of wine between his eyes and the firelight and by saying that he hoped he never saw a Christmas eve when he could not have the companionship of the radiant devil which blinked at him.

Such thoughts and such performances are not for us and we should have no traffic with latitudinarians and graceless men.

DEFEND OUR DEFENSES.

Representatives of the American Legion have appeared before a senatorial committee to support resistance to a further cut in army personnel. It may be assumed the Legion will also object to cuts in navy personnel. We hope the Legion will put its full influence energetically into this fight against dangerous weakening of the national defenses. If the Legion should fail the country in this respect, the failure would be serious indeed, for it is from our veterans that we have a right to expect an informed public opinion on the importance of preparedness and the cost of unpreparedness.

The recommendations of professional soldiers are always discounted and it is therefore necessary that civilian soldiers should make themselves heard in favor of sound measures. The costly lessons of our recent experience in warfare have not been sufficiently aired and emphasized and there are always men in congress who are bent upon reducing our army and navy without regard to our needs, men who apparently cultivate a willful ignorance. With the public uninformed and preoccupied with the problems of peace, it is easy for a pacifist minority to block needed measures and in the name of economy even accomplish dangerous reductions.

No one wants a cent spent on defense which cannot be justified in reason. Our present scarcity of war has brought about remarkable economies. The general staff, under Pershing and Harbord, has utilized our experience abroad to save money and at the same time increase efficiency. When they say enough it is time for congress to take heed, and the Legion should give its strength to support the experts' objection.

The minimum has been reached, if indeed it has not been undercut, both in the army and navy, and further reductions would not be economy but unjustifiable waste. There is nothing in our situation or in world conditions which justifies our disarmament. We are glad to believe war is not imminent for us. But that does not justify the blind reduction of our naval and military defenses below the minimum required for garrisons, the training of citizen reserves, and the maintenance of a skeleton professional army upon which a citizen army could be built up in case a change came in our situation. We cannot make an army or navy on the spur of the moment, as 1917 proved, and it is no wiser to reduce our defenses below the essential minimum, simply because we are not expecting war, than it would be for an individual to give up his life insurance because he is in good health.

THE COMMUTER'S TICKET.

Each month is a fresh tablet handed the commuter. He has a visible token of something definite within the determined bounds of which he may expect experience, strive for achievement, accept disappointment, or realize hope. His ticket is a calendar and the conductor's punch records his loss of days.

He has a tangible allotment of the future, obtained fresh each month, and in the untricked rim of the numbers there is the suggestion that a fresh start has been made towards a definite objective. As the conductor's punch travels along the numbered rim the commuter sees his days disappearing, physically obliterated, until there is but an inch of unclipped time, and for that he will have no use. He is handed another tablet, around which the destroying punch will travel, which the city dweller lacks. He sits twice daily in the presence of fate and sees it clip from his possession of days, from his prospect of achievement, and as the clipping robs him of his allotment the train hurries him physically along. He is paying toll and traveling fast over a route which he covers each day and another which he sees but once.

Thus he has life documented for him. At the beginning of each month he has a fresh and inspiring document and at the end one to throw away for another to be tried. His ticket also means that there are two gates to his world, two contrasting sets of experiences, two counterbalancing sets of values. Each ticket presents him with a fixed connotation of prospects. February—and there is in prospect the white cold, the lengthening day, the returning sunset, and the suggestion, when the sun is white and the wind from the west, that soon there will be a green stem uncurling under the dead leaves and a sudden call from the fields. His February ticket is a promise of a portent from the south.

Editorial of the Day

MORE "CONVERSATION."

[From the Breeders' Gazette.]

The editor of the Gazette was invited to participate in the conference called at Washington this week to consider existing agricultural conditions. He is duly appreciative of the compliment, but could not see his way clear to attend. He trusts that something good will come of it. No one appreciates more thoroughly the unfortunate situation prevailing; none can be more sympathetic or more sincerely anxious to serve; but we are going to be perfectly frank about this matter.

We believe that hard work, thrift, and economy offer the only way out—the one absolutely sure way out—and with all due deference to the President, who lent the dignity of his great office to the opening session, we wish to say that the cattle and hogs on feed today in the corn belt are doing more for the restoration of prosperity every twenty-four hours than all "talkfests" can accomplish in a year. It has cost a lot of good money to hold all the conferences and committee meetings that have been held during the last twelve months, many of which have been little else than post-mortems on the most questionable of who it was that really "killed" the cock robin—the farmer, the federal reserve board, the board of trade, the packers, the railroads, the middlemen, the producers, or some other Satanic agency.

There is not an intelligent man, woman, or child in America but knows that we are suffering not from some incurable or dangerous internal disease, but from the wounds of war—gunshot wounds, if you please; and these are to be healed by time and honest cooperation, not by patent medicines.

These gatherings afford a fine opportunity for "conversation" for farm consumption, but does that sort of thing get anywhere? That is the question. Believing that all should practice what they preach, and believing that the man who attends to his own business closely these days is the one who is doing most for his country, we have saved the price of a Washington ticket and hotel bill and a week's time.

YANKEE CROPS SAVE RUSSIA

BY OTIS SWIFT.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Walter Lyman Brown, European director of the American Relief Administration, says that, despite the disorganization of the Russian railways, 150,000 tons of grain will be "transported into the interior monthly. The American Relief will be feeding 5,000,000 adults before the end of February. It will be feeding 2,000,000 children before Feb. 15. About 175,000 tons of grain already have been purchased in the United States by the purchasing commission appointed by President Harding. About 135,000 tons of this will have left the United States by Feb. 1.

SPREAD OF FAMINE.

KHARKOV.—Famine is spreading swiftly in many parts of Ukraine, especially in the Odessa, Nikolai, Ekaterinoslav, Zaporozh, and Donetsk districts, where the harvest this year has been completely compromised. Thus in the Odessa and little Volga regions the population is dying from starvation. In Ustovska, Velichanska, and Sticevka 90 per cent of the deaths are caused by starvation. At Stichevka people beggar the soviets asking for bread and work. Women are leaving their children to the soviets' charity. In many parts peasants are leaving their houses with their families in order to find bread; they sell their belongings for practically nothing. Starving people are beginning to eat corpses of cattle.

In the Melitopol, Volost, Astrahansk, and Voznesenskia regions 90 per cent of the population is feeding on grass and plants, and the soviets are almost all sick from this kind of food. In Volost, Mihalovska, 9,000 are starving. During the months of October and November 650 horses died on account of lack of fodder.

Records of the relief committee of Gubernial show that in the three districts of Kherson, Nikolai, and Dneprovsk there are approximately 400,000 starving. A like situation is reported at Ekaterinoslav, where there are more than 300,000 people starving. In general, in South Ukraine, in the interior zone of 120 miles all along the Black sea, the famine is spreading. On the other hand, on the right side of the Dnieper, in the districts of Podolia and Volynia, where the harvest has been rather abundant, peasants are forming bands to prevent the soviets from taking parts of the harvest. The peasants at the same time plunder villages and perpetrate pogroms among the Jewish population in order to plunder their properties, as almost all of them are merchants. The price of bread, fodder and other commodities has more than tripled in a month's time.

Owing to new regulations each peasant is obliged to state the amount of his harvest and his needs, as he is to pay the tax with a certain quantity of his harvest. This year Ukraine fixed its revenues to about 12,200 tons [about 7,000 bushels], as the total crop amounted to 350,000,000 bushels. The great problem is to make the present crop last until the next one. For the present all efforts are concentrated to feed the starving regions with the crop of the more fortunate ones. The Ukraine must also feed the Crimea, where the soil has not been tilled on account of the Wrangel occupation; the same for the Don and Caucasus districts. These districts need 3,000,000 bushels of sowing seed.

The only practical means of providing food in a district is to exchange goods. Thus, for instance, for 250 pounds of coal or 40 or 60 pounds of salt the peasant gives 45 pounds of wheat. There are also regions which accept soviet money, but they sell at exaggerated prices, and from day to day prices increase on account of depreciation of value. It is estimated that the present crop will last until the middle of March. So famine is threatening the entire Ukraine, which formerly was the granary of Europe. In the rest of Russia, Crimea and Caucasus the situation will be worse still. Prof. Hutcheson of California and Dr. Golder, both members of the American relief administration, investigated the condition last December in the famished regions of Ukraine, and established three new sections of the American relief administration, viz: Charcov, Odessa and Kiev, and the work has already begun. In Ukraine there are many families having relatives in the United States who are taking interest in their condition. At the present time the American relief administration has many 10 packages which will be soon distributed. Prof. Hutcheson is still in the famished regions of South Ukraine.

MEXICO EXTENDS LIBRARIES

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

MEXICO CITY.—The federal department of public instruction has set apart $1,000,000 for the establishment of libraries in places where there are none, in the public schools, in the various literary centers, and in workmen's unions. This is more than four times what the department had for this purpose last year.

While the federal district, in which is situated the city of Mexico, is making strenuous efforts to extend the public school system so as to include every child in the district, many towns of the state of Mexico, by which the district is surrounded, are showing little disposition to extend educational ends. In the mining town of El Oro alone eight schools have just been suspended because, so the city council states, there is not money enough to sustain them.

The secret probably lies in the fact the federal government is taking over schools throughout the various states where there is no disposition to support them; and El Oro, though a rich mining town, finds it convenient to let the federal government support its schools. Other towns in the state seem to be taking the same view of the situation. This is giving the federal department of public instruction a chance to extend federal control over large areas of territory formerly controlled educationally by states and municipalities.

Agua Calientes is the latest state apparently to think that it is probably better to let the federal department of education manage the state schools. The salaries of teachers, which were down to the existence point, have been cut in half. Grade teachers now receive the equivalent of $15 a month, American money. The teachers have threatened to appeal to the federal government this week, making a general complaint that salaries are now so low in Agua Calientes that teachers cannot exist, let alone live.

AT 40—WATCH YOUR FOOD!

FROM time to time I am tempted to give the advice as to dieting given people beyond 40 by Dr. Adam Wright.

He advises persons of this age, in reasonably good health and desirous of remaining that way, to eat three meals a day—one small, one medium, and one fairly large.

Other things being equal, the best hour for the fairly large meal is at or near the noon hour.

Of course, amount of muscle work required in the day's work is a factor in any such schedule. Climate is a factor of less importance.

Among the articles which may be taken freely he gives:

"Soups, toasted bread and crackers; plenty of butter; eggs, soft boiled, poached, or raw with milk; most kinds of fresh fish, oysters and clams; poultry, lamb, and mutton; raw vegetables—salads, celery, cucumber, asparagus, endives; cooked vegetables—potatoes, squash, cauliflower, beets, peas, and string beans; dessert—fruits, tapioca, sago, and rice puddings, junkets, ice cream, gelatin; cheese—Camembert, Roquefort, cream, Swiss, and Cheddar; liquids—milk (liberally), buttermilk, and cocoa.

Foods to be taken sparingly: Cereals, beef, steak, game, freshly baked wheat bread, certain gas forming vegetables, such as beans, onions, and turnips, cakes and pastry generally, tea and coffee.

Foods to be avoided: Salt or smoked fish, pork and fat meats generally, fried or highly seasoned foods; certain vegetables, such as tomatoes, cucumbers, asparagus and cooked cabbage; hot biscuits and other hot breads, rich puddings, and sauces.

He calls attention to the marked tendency of the middle aged toward constipation. This is due in part to the custom of eating foods which leave but little residue. This, he thinks, should be guarded against by including in the diet Graham, rye, corn, and whole wheat breads, and bran prepared in different ways.

Another factor in the tendency to constipation of people of this age period is drinking too little water. They live in dry houses, and the employment often fails to induce thirst. They need more water than they get, as a rule.

He advises them to drink water in large quantities, and once in a while to drink a full glass of distilled water at bedtime.

Most people in middle life engaged in desk work and working at skilled trades need more physical exercise than they get.

ANNOYANCE STOPPED.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—[Friend of the People.]—In the 5500 block on Broadway one place has no garbage cans and they dump their garbage loose in the alley, burning what they can and leaving the rest to draw rats and breed disease. We should like the matter attended to.

This is a six flat building and the ashes are kept on the premises and hauled privately. All combustible refuse is burned in the middle of March. So famine is threatening the entire Ukraine, which formerly was the granary of Europe. In the rest of Russia, Crimea and Caucasus the situation will be worse still.

Prof. Hutcheson of California and Dr. Golder, both members of the American relief administration, investigated the condition last December in the famished regions of Ukraine, and established three new sections of the American relief administration, viz: Charcov, Odessa and Kiev, and the work has already begun. In Ukraine there are many families having relatives in the United States who are taking interest in their condition. Can I come back at them with the law or compensation act, in case they deem it advisable to remove me from the service on this account?

Chicago, Jan. 21.—[Friend of the People.]—What was the city limits on the south side in 1857? Also when were the towns of Hyde Park and Lake annexed to Chicago? What was the name of South Chicago before it was called South Chicago?

South side city limits, 39th street. Hyde Park and Lake were annexed in 1859. In 1863 the site which is now South Chicago was annexed to Chicago. In 1857 it was changed to Alnsworth and in 1871 it became South Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—We are property owners on Calumet avenue, between 6th and 68th streets. There is dumping of all kinds in the vacant property across the street. We would like to have it stopped. It is not only unsightly but the dust from the ashes will be terrible in the spring and summer. Can they be hauled away?

The property referred to is a swamp in rainy weather. Filling was done on request of the Park Manor Improvement association. The cans will be cleaned up and we do not think it will be objectionable in the spring or summer.

MR. MELLON AND THE BONUS.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The star performer of President Harding's cabinet has been heard from again in regard to the service men's adjusted compensation. Andrew Mellon, true to type, again presents the opinion of Wall street and the Journal of Commerce—namely, the country cannot stand this expense; we have tapped all resources of revenue; and so on, ad infinitum, ad nauseam.

Here are a few facts which may be well to remember: Within the last couple of years our government has paid to the railroads and other deserving (?) commercial and industrial interests more than two billion dollars, and not a peep has there been from Friend Mellon on this subject.

Mellon still repeats the compensation bill will cost the country $850,000,000 the first two years. There are none so blind as those who will not see. Can it be possible Mellon has not heard that the senate finance committee stated the cost of the compensation bill the first year would be $100,000,000 and that in no year would it exceed $200,000,000?

Why all this vehement objection to an adjusted compensation bill? Are not the boys deserving of it? Should the compensation be paid the money would not be irrevocably lost to the country. Rather it will be put into circulation, thereby aiding commerce and industry; and perhaps, incidentally, it will relieve considerable suffering and hardship now prevalent among the war veterans.

A COAL CONSUMER'S PROTEST.

Platteville, Wis., Jan. 25.—We thought we were being robbed when the fuel administrator put into effect here the following retail coal prices Nov. 17, 1917: Hard coal, egg and nut, $11.75 delivered. Pocahontas, $11.50 delivered; soft, Zeigler and Franklin county, $7 delivered. Today we pay $18.75, $15, and $9 respectively. Then we were at war. Labor was high and cash hard to get. We were allowed only small quantities. The power of government fixed those prices. Now with labor going begging and plenty of cash to be had we pay $7 more for hard, $4.50 for Pocahontas, and $2 more for soft coal than during the war, and no money to be earned.

Of course we are told that labor is to blame. It is always labor that is the goat. The large newspapers are always good at that stuff. They howl that the miners get 100 per cent more wages than before the war and so that is the trouble. They never tell us that this 100 per cent means only from 50 to 75 cents more a ton to the miners. One hundred per cent sounds more like $100, and, of course, ought to explain the $2, $5, and $7 boost in the price. Well, it does not explain it.

This government is certainly costing enough to be of some use to us. In 1917 we saw what it could do to us. "We would now like to see it do something for us."

"FRANCE IS PUTTING SOMETHING OVER."

Chicago, Jan. 25.—I cannot resist the desire to write thanks for your editorial on "America and the War Debt." Many of us who were in France in 1918 and 1919 had inklings of what was happening after the armistice and many times I have wanted to write down my impressions of that time. Mr. T. W. Carr, who has a letter in today's paper under "How Does France Get That Way?" expresses very ably some of the thoughts which have been in my mind in connection with France.

I know that in the minds of many of my immediate buddies are the questions which Mr. Carr raises in his letter.

DIVORCEE KILLS SELF FOR LOVE OF RICH PASTOR

Boston, Mass., Jan. 29.—(Special.)—Mrs. Bernice Boucher, the beautiful young divorcee who swallowed poison tablets Friday when she learned that the Rev. Francis M. Boyer, an Episcopal clergyman, was a married man, died in St. Elizabeth's hospital early this morning. She took the poison in her apartment at 1738 Commonwealth avenue, Allston.

Her death followed within a few hours a statement made public by the police from the Rev. Mr. Boyer, in which his relations with the young woman were revealed.

The clergyman, former curate of the Church of the Advent, Boston, and former Episcopal rector in New Bedford, confessed to the police of the Brighton police station as he sat in the captain's office and wiped his forehead with a trembling hand.

In the Rev. Mr. Boyer's talk with Capt. Hall of the Brighton station, he said that his relations with Mrs. Boucher extended over eight months, that his wife was unaware of these relations, and that he had first met Mrs. Boucher at Rowe's wharf.

Mrs. Boucher, it was learned, was some time known as a "college widow," and had told on several occasions of being the "Ruth Dexter" of some locally made moving pictures.

Mrs. Boyer, it was said last night, contemplates divorce proceedings here. According to the police, this is the Rev. Mr. Boyer's statement:

"I went to Mrs. Boucher's apartment on Friday. I was troubled by my conscience. She waved me to sit down. I did so and I said: 'Bernice, this cannot continue. It has gone far enough. I am a married man.'

"There was a brief but very stormy

Who are you riding with?

Back of every ride you take in a YELLOW

CAB is the prestige—and standing—of every officer of this organization. Back of every ride is their moral responsibility. These men are reckoned as leaders in Chicago's industrial and professional life. And banded together, as they are, they constitute a financial responsibility that makes YELLOW CAB tower far above all other cab companies in the world.

Moral and financial responsibility are the two great factors in permanent success. Nothing else wins public confidence so readily nor holds it so long. We say this—not in a spirit of braggadocio—but to let you know who you are riding with when you ride in a YELLOW CAB—and because the cab industry of the past, and many cab companies, have been so careless in their methods.

Eldredge Sewing Machines

In the Console Model

Splendidly constructed, of workmanship and materials which mark the Eldredge as superior. These electrically driven sewing machines in the console model combine most effectively beauty with utility.

Open, they present an unusual amount of working space, as the illustration shows. Closed, they become a most attractive piece of period furniture.

The Eldredge alone has the two-spool feature, eliminating bobbins and bobbin winding. Easy to operate—a slight pressure of the pedal controls the speed.

These machines may be purchased on a convenient plan of payment if desired.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and greatly purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c.

FELTON DENIES HUGE SAVING IN NEW BOARD RULE

Takes Issue with Report from U. S. Body.

Reports emanating from the United States railroad labor board as to enormous savings in the country would be a result of the working rules prescribed by the board for rail clerks, freight handlers and station employees were impeached last night in a statement issued by Samuel M. Felton, president of the Chicago Great Western. The statement follows:

"The press and public have been misled by misinformation emanating from the office of the railway labor board in a matter of such importance that the incident should not be allowed to pass unnoticed. On Jan. 23 a statement headed 'From United States Railroad Labor Board' was given to the press regarding an order the labor board had issued changing certain rules in the national agreements made by the railroad administration under federal control with the Brotherhood of Railroad and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees.

Referring to the changes in two rules which were made, the statement board said, 'These two changes in the rules are expected to save the railroads many millions of dollars, any exact estimate being impossible owing to fluctuating business and traffic conditions. Railroad critics of the national agreements in past hearings before the railroad labor board contended that these two rules cost the roads great sums, even hinting at amounts in excess of $50,000,000, but experts attached to the board say that $15,000,000 is a conservative estimate.'

"This whole statement regarding estimated savings, although emanating from the labor board, was a fabrication. First, no witnesses for the railroads in hearings before the railroad labor board ever estimated that the two rules in question cost the railroads $50,000,000 a year, and therefore no witness for railroads ever intimated that by changing these two rules this amount could be saved.

Estimate Too High, He Says. Second, the statistical department of the labor board itself estimated not at $15,000,000 but at $4,823,834 the total saving that could be made by changes in these rules.

"The result was to give a large part of the public the impression that the saving made by these changes in rules was ten times as great as was estimated by the board's own statistical department. Furthermore, some railroads which have carefully checked their figures are unable to find that the changes in rules in question will enable them to make any savings that are more than negligible.

"The press and the public are entitled to know the facts about this matter, because it is wholly unjust to give the public a grossly exaggerated idea of the reductions in railway labor costs which the labor board is making by its revision of the working rules.

UNION LEADERS THINK BUILDING PEACE IS NEAR

Expect Landis Edict to Clarify Situation.

William A. Curran, president of the Chicago Building Trades council, was optimistic last night that a solution clarifying the building trades situation would be found within a week.

Although the head of the trades council refused to divulge the nature of the solution expected, officials of other building trade organizations averred that if Judge Landis eliminated the differential wage rate in his new award and restored a uniform scale for the basic trades, peace would be resumed.

Judge Landis will begin today to consider the data submitted by the building trade unions on which he will issue a new wage scale for them to become effective June 1.

Harry Jensen, president of the Carpenters' District council, said last night that the action of Judge Landis in refusing to resign as arbitrator of building trade wage and working disputes in compliance with a petition recently sent to him by officials of unions dissatisfied with his award was not regarded as significant by the trades council. He said another meeting of business agents of building trade unions would be held to discuss further strike activities.

This beautiful closed car is the most attractive value ever offered by Hudson. It is shown at the Chicago Automobile Show for the first time anywhere. It is bound to capture chief interest.

Come see it. It concerns you personally—and your plans for buying a car, whether open or closed model.

An examination of the Hudson Coach will pay you well.

The Coach will cost you less even than the open model of any car to which you compare Hudson in quality, performance and reliability.

And see how fully it meets your closed car requirements, at a saving of perhaps $200 to $1,500. Think of a closed car on the famous Super-Six chassis, for $1795, f. o. b. Detroit. That is less than 6 per cent above the cost of Hudson open models. It is a sensational achievement in car manufacture.

You need no other assurance with respect to the heavy, quality and smartness of the Coach than the fact that Hudson has always led in building fine closed cars. It has created styles that are patterns of the industry. The Coach is in keeping with Hudson's best traditions.

It is certain to be the most popular type Hudson ever built. Be sure to see it. It is a point. Early deliveries will be possible for those who place their orders at once.

AUTO LAUDED BY PREACHER AS AID TO FAMILY LIFE

One Redeeming Feature of City, He Says.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Notwithstanding the "boulevard" and joy riding the automobile was defended yesterday in the pulpit of the Evanston Christian church as the one bright spot in the "bad life" of big cities. The preacher was the Rev. Orris F. Jordan, the pastor. He spoke on the subject, "Why Cities Are Bad."

The old fashioned family life of the country has almost disappeared in our big cities," he said. "There is a big contrast between sitting around the glowing logs of the old fireside and sitting around a steam heater, but it wouldn't be so bad if the family would only sit around something. Instead the family goes to the movies."

"The one redeeming feature of city life is the automobile. I say this in spite of its abuses and evils, which all recognize. The automobile keeps the members of families together. The mother takes the baby and John, Mary, and Susan can all go shopping. The father finds enjoyment and rest in the 'spin.' The family goes out to the woods or to the parks to escape the open country."

"The difficulty of acquiring a home, high rents, dislike of landlords to rent to parents who have small children, work against family life in the big cities," he said.

"The connection of city government with vice and corrupt practices makes the big cities bad."

"But the cities are not the only places where people live that are bad. Any one who has lived in a country village knows that there are many temptations to evil living in the small place, especially where young people are not given agreeable social privileges."

At a meeting of the Women's Roosevelt Republican club, which is affiliated with the Deneen-Brundage faction, in the Auditorium hotel at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon, the candidacy of several for county commissioner will be announced. Among these, it is believed, will be Mrs. M. H. Lieber, Mrs. George Dean, and Miss Helen Bennett.

INJUNCTION O. K. IF USED RIGHTLY, GOMPERS SAYS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—(Special.)—Labor has no objection to the writ of injunction when properly used," says Samuel Gompers, commenting on the recent injunction granted by Justice Wagner in New York, restraining employers in the garment workers strike.

The Wagner injunction, Mr. Gompers declared, related to violation of contract by employers and was "nothing remarkable," even though it did favor the workers.

"Enjoining exercise of constitutional and lawful rights is not enforcement of law; it is violation of law and a violation in which courts have indulged themselves with abandon, even up to the Supreme court of the United States," he said.

G. O. P. Members of Bloc Agree to "Valuation"

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—(Special.)—Republican senators of the agricultural bloc have assured administration leaders of their intention to support the proposed modified American valuation plan which the senate finance committee will perfect this week. With this assurance the rejection of the proposition on the floor of the senate becomes unlikely.

Car Owners Attention!

Do you know that your starting troubles in cold weather are due mostly to the weak inefficient spark of battery ignition?

Do you know that at low temperatures, the battery efficiency is reduced almost one-half and, with the excessive current required to start the engine, the battery voltage becomes so low that only an extremely thin and weak spark—if any at all—is produced in the cylinder?

Do you know that a magneto is self-contained, generates its own high tension current and delivers it to the spark plugs without any help from or connection with a battery or coil; that it has a hotter, fatter spark than the battery ignition spark; that it will start the engine more quickly under all weather conditions; that it prevents exhaustion of the battery caused by excessive cranking; that it results in a smoother running engine, more power on the hills, greater gas economy and greater dependability?

Eisemann Magneto Attachments are now ready for the more popular type passenger cars and light weight delivery trucks.

Installations at our Factory Branch, 1469 So. Michigan Ave., or any Service Station. Send for list and also literature.

SCHAEFFER BOUT TO DETERMINE BURMAN CLASS

Whether Joe Burman, popular west side boxer, will be graduated from the bantamweight division and groomed for a match with Johnny Kilbane for the featherweight title will be determined on Friday night when Joe will trade punches with Frankie Schaeffer, hard sider, at Kenosha. Although Burman and his manager, Tommy Johnson, have agreed to let Schaeffer weigh in at 126 pounds at 3 o'clock on the day of the contest, they claim the match was made to give Joe a real battle at the start of a campaign which they hope will wind up with a contest with Johnny Buff for the bantamweight championship.

Burman Getting Heavy.

According to the gossip heard around the Arcade, where Burman trains, Joe cannot make 126 pounds let alone 118, the recognized bantamweight limit. Burman admits he will scale 124 pounds on the day of the fight but claims he can get down to 120.

Should Burman win decisively from Schaeffer and still show his old time speed despite the added poundage, the general belief of those who have followed his ring career is that he will step up into the featherweight class. Outside of Kilbane, the west sider's friends say he can beat any of them and inside of six months will be ready for the champion.

Predict a Capacity House.

According to Promoter John Wagner and Jim Mullen, manager of Schaeffer, a capacity crowd will see the contest, which has created intense local interest. There is a brisk demand for tickets at 153 North Clark street where Sammy Wolff has the exclusive loop sale.

Tom Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, will work at the Arcade today according to Manager Eddie Kane. Tom is on his way to Boston where he will box twelve rounds with Pat McCarthy on Thursday night. He will leave for the east this afternoon.

Jack Duffy, local middleweight who will meet Gosta Dolg of Spring Valley before Jimmy Keyes' club at La Salle on Thursday night, will leave for the battleground tomorrow night. He will box at the Arcade today and tomorrow.

Promoter Keyes has arranged three other contests to support the main event.

Match for Charlie White.

Charlie White, local lightweight, yesterday closed a match with Jimmy Frizette of Boston. The contest will take place in Worcester, Mass., on Feb. 10, and the weight will be 135 pounds at 3 o'clock on the day of the contest. It will be a ten round contest to a decision. White will resume training today at Ferretti's gym. The local lightweight stated his match with Willie Jackson of New York will be held the latter part of next month.

ARCADE AMATEUR BOUTS.

Rose Murphy won the feature bout in the 135 pound class at Kid Howard's amateur boxing tournament at the Arcade yesterday. Murphy's terrific right hand and his superior boxing skill made an impression with the judges. Following is a result of the other bouts:

115 pound class, Frank Cohen won from Leo La Jem in 4 rounds.

125 pound class, Ed. Kellan won from Jack Kolo, 3 rounds.

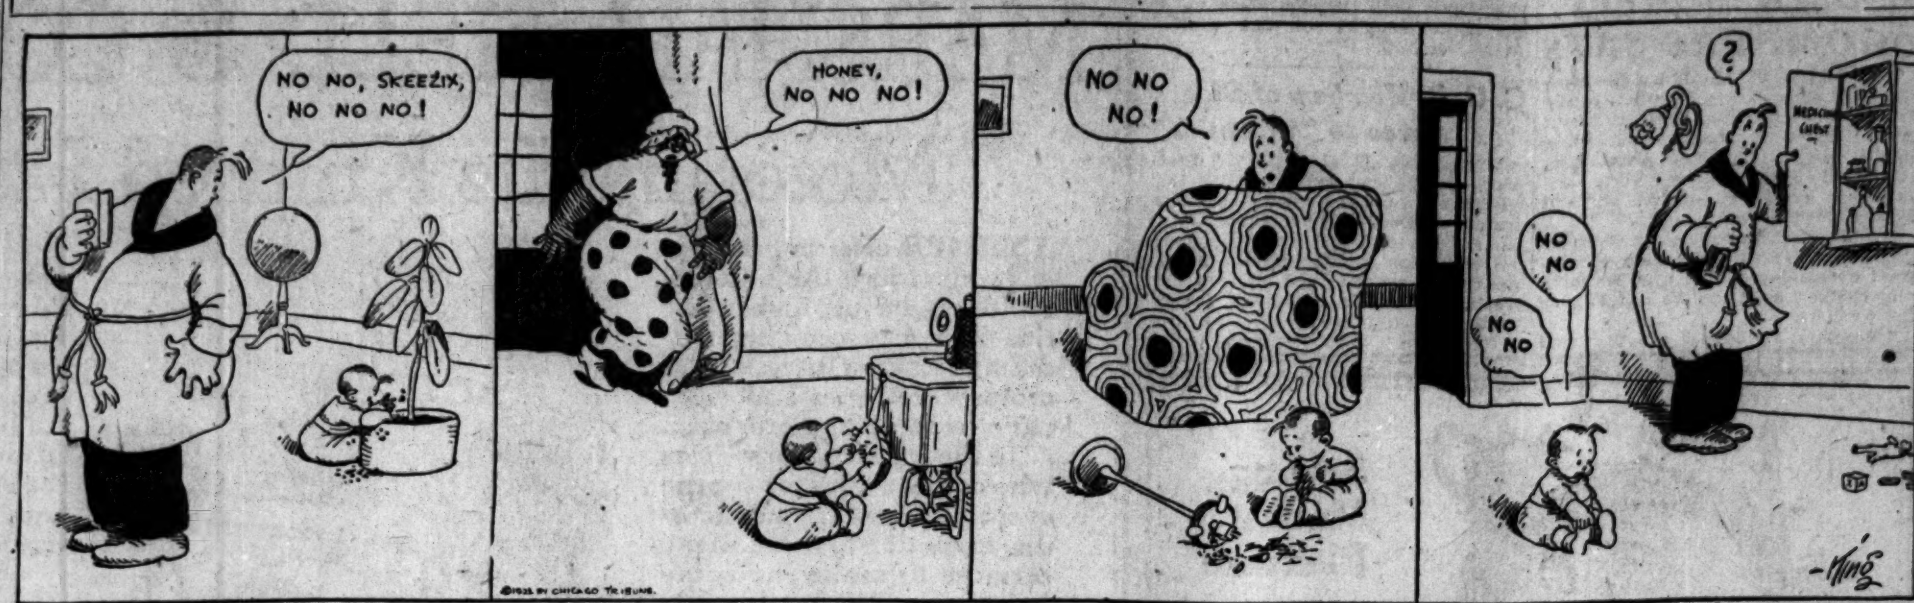

135 pound class, Walter Beak beat Jack Zolt, 3 rounds.

158 pound class, J. J. Franks and Walter Vlas, draw, 4 rounds.

MINOR FIVE WINNER.

Minok, Ill. Jan. 29.—(Special).—Minok's basketball five defeated Decatur last night, 43 to 27. It being their eighteenth straight win of the season.

GASOLINE ALLEY—LEARNING THE LANGUAGE

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER

by Frank Smith
A PUGILIST with a title, yet a pugilist without a title. That pugilist is Bill Tate! Way down east promoters and scribes seem to have overlooked the fact that Harry Wills lost the colored heavyweight championship to Bill Tate at Portland, Ore., recently and when given a chance to win it back within a week, failed utterly. Perhaps the boys down east haven't heard of those two clashes. Perhaps they don't want to hear of them.

Tate showed Pacific coast fans twice within a week that he was master of Wills. Going into the ring in poor condition just previous to these two battles, he convinced Denver fans that he was just as good as Wills. Harry, before the Denver bout, stated publicly that he never was in better shape. What is the answer?

In the face of Tate's showing in these three clashes, easterners are going along plugging for a clash between Wills and Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight championship. How can it be a real battle of this nature when Wills is not a champion? If the clash goes through Tate will remain colored champion and Jack Dempsey will remain white champion. This is a foregone conclusion. That battle will not prove anything.

If eastern promoters, scribes, and fans are not convinced that Tate is colored champion, we have no doubt he would be glad to show them that he is the legitimate title holder. He demonstrated it once and probably can demonstrate it again. If Wills is a fit opponent for Dempsey, then Tate is a fit opponent for the champion.

An alleged elimination contest between Wills and Kid Norfolk is on the fire. If Norfolk puts up the same kind of a battle that he did against Tate in Madison Square Garden on the Dempsey-Brennan bill, Wills should be whipped. Norfolk bested Tate that night. We saw him administer the dose of defeat. We hold no brief for Tate, but we can say without fear or contradiction that he probably was in the poorest shape of his fighting career. He trained with Dempsey and Jack never was in worse shape for a battle. If the camp's principal refuses to train conscientiously, what can be expected of a hired man?

If eastern promoters are sincere in their move for a battle between the best colored heavyweight and Dempsey, let them invite Tate to the Atlantic coast for another contest with Wills to decide once and for all which of the two big black men is the better. Tate has convinced the west that he is master of Wills. Does the east wish to be convinced?

We believe the east will find it a hard task to get Wills into the ring with Tate again.

KEARNS TO SEE WHAT TEX HAS TO OFFER

BY HARRY NEWMAN.
New York, Jan. 29.—(Special).—There promises to be some lively doings in the boxing world this week.

First of all, Jack Kearns will no doubt have a heart to heart talk with Tex Rickard to find out definitely what Tex can put in the way of Jack Dempsey for an early match at the Garden.

Following the coach it is almost a cinch that Kearns will be compelled to pay Jack Dempsey, who has offered $200,000 for Dempsey and Harry Wills.

Not Slinging Offers Broadcast. Brady is too wise a bird to toss in a bid of 200,000 smackers without knowing right well where he stood. This same Billy Brady is no novice at the fight game. He wants a battle between Dempsey and Wills, and is willing to pay for it.

It is believed the fans throughout the country want that match. Brady may have many obstacles to overcome before he lands it, but he has a good fighting spirit, and no doubt will force Kearns and Dempsey to support their hands.

Why Pick on Game Georges?
All the talk about a return match between Dempsey and Carpenter falls on deaf ears to the average American fan, who knows that the Frenchman would not have a ghost of a chance. Even our English cousins would scarcely fall for that bunk.

POLLARD, ASCHER ROLL INTO FIRST PLACE AT AURORA

Aurora, Ill., Jan. 29.—(Special).—The pins fell hard in the interstate bowling tournament today and more than a dozen Chicago lives on the alleys failed to get money counts.

The Vanenagels commission five of Milwaukee is holding first place temporarily with 2,733. Jack Pollard and M. Ascher of Chicago Heights took the lead in the two men event with 1,208. Ascher getting 206, 190, and 266 for 662 pins. J. Scheidt of Rockford holds the lead in the singles with 625.

At the annual meeting of the Illinois Bowling association, held in Hotel Sherman last night, William Moritz of Chicago was elected president. Besides the election of officers the site of the annual tournament was also decided. Louis Petersen being awarded the state classic after a keen competition among the owners of the Chateau, Schuenneman, Randolph, and Petersen drives.

Following is a list of the new state officers: William Moritz, president; Joseph Bartos of Chicago, William Laddow of Peoria and Edward Wagner of Aurora, vice presidents; Jake Mueller, secretary, and Al Sindelar, treasurer; Roy Davis, auditor; committee on finance, James Hartwell, Walter Trishman, and Elmer Baumgarten.

Immediately after the I. B. A. meeting the Chicago Bowling association held a special meeting, at which sixty delegates to the American Bowling congress were elected. The congress will convene during the A. B. C. tournament in Toledo.

The Avondale team, composed of Pete Beeson and Frank Kafora, added another victory to their string in the Greater Chicago tournament by winning four of five games from the Crystal pair of Bob Ritter and Bob Reselle.

It was a quiet Sunday night at Crouse's alleys, where the Windy City bowling tournament is in progress. None of the leaders was disturbed, the only flash coming in the singles, where J. Buerrl of Highland Park rolled into third place with 647. The Bolante also of Highland Park, landed ninth place in the team event with 2,320.

Eckersall picked the first man across the tape in more than three hundred sprints in the last two six day races here, and never had a complaint from a rider. In fact, it was the riders who asked Harmon to name Eckersall.

The new wheel-

with standard valve stem outside

The new Disteels can be inflated from the outside of the wheel at any air station with any air hose. No special fittings or extensions are necessary. Inner tubes with standard straight valve stems such as can be bought from any tire dealer are used. The tube cannot creep because the valve stem is always held in a straight position. This also prevents leaks in the inner-tube itself.

LIGHTER THAN WOOD WHEELS

The new Disteel Wheels are lighter than wood wheels with demountable rims and much lighter than steel wheels with demountable rims. This means less inertia to overcome, less fuel to start, less unsprung weight. Less unsprung weight means better acceleration, reduced tire wear and more comfortable riding.

Five new Disteels weigh less than four wheels with demountable rims.

SAFETY

There never has been a Disteel Wheel broken. Like a spring they yield and flex and return to original shape. This protects the axles from damage and protects you from injury. The tire locking ring is on the inside of the rim, thus preventing tires from being stolen.

In case of a collision your life may be saved because no matter how serious the accident, Disteels will always stay on the axles and hold up the car.

DURABILITY

Disteel Wheels are made of steel and are lasting as the metal itself. They are unaffected by climatic changes, do not shrink, squeak or require any service attention.

Disteels always run true. Brake drums are concentric; no dragging brake bands—longer life.

RESILIENCY

The shape of the new Disteel Wheel makes it a shock absorber. The flexing disc takes part of the road shocks just as the springs and tires do—as though a secondary tire were in the wheel.

The single inwardly curved tapered disc permits the wheel to flex as much as one inch and return to normal. See a demonstration of this at the Automobile Show, Coliseum Gallery, space 56.

DEMOUNTABLE WHEEL

Tires can be more quickly changed. No demountable rims, bolts, nuts and wedges to be replaced. It is economy and in case of emergency a convenience to have a spare wheel.

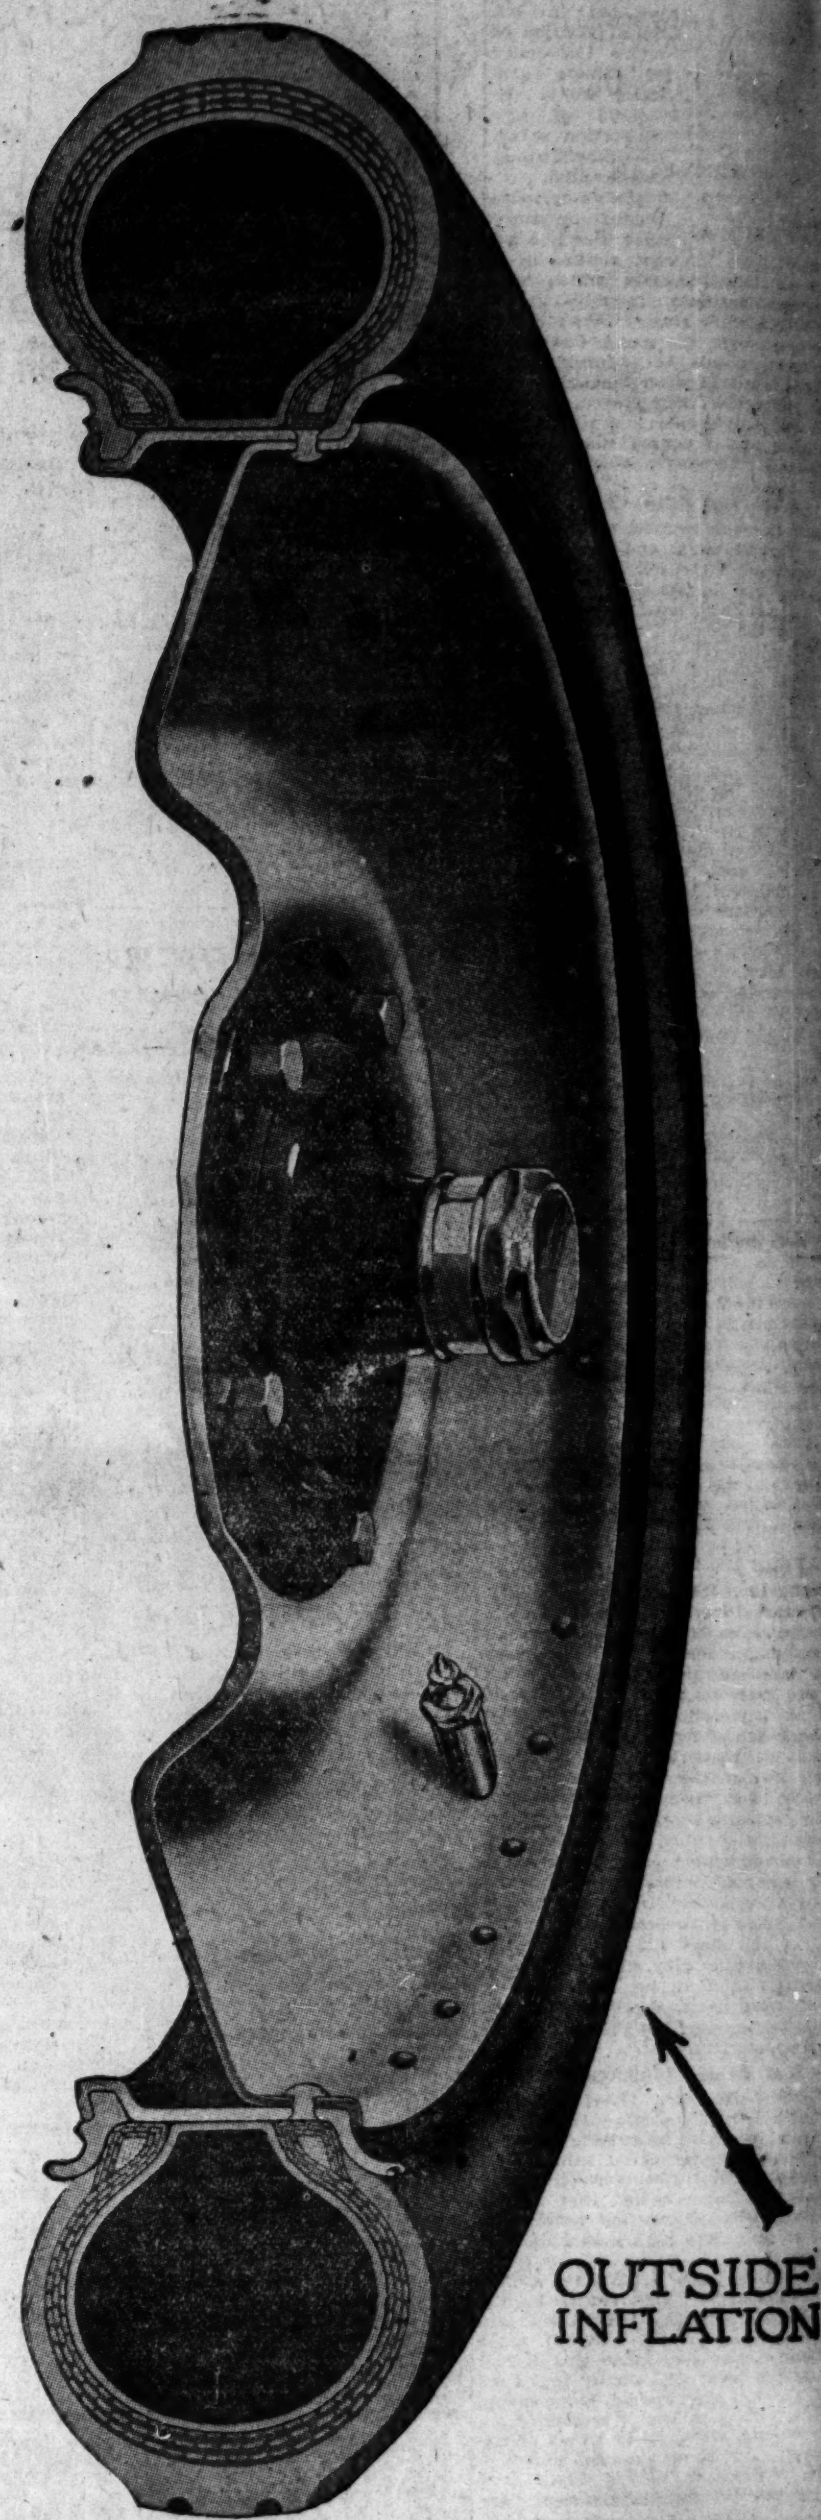

When a tire is punctured, remove five nuts and the entire wheel comes off. The spare wheel is easily slipped into place. Lighter weight makes it easy to handle.

EASY TO KEEP CLEAN

Disteels keep clean and are as easy to wash as a plate. The surface is as smooth as glass and will not permit dirt to readily adhere.

The enamel finish is as lasting as the enamel on fenders and hood.

YOUR NAME MAY MEAN A FORTUNE IF YOU'RE LUCKY

Send It to Doris Blake, She'll Find Out.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What is your name? Is it a lucky name? What is your birthday? Is it a lucky day?

Do you know that in your name, concealed somewhere in the spelling of it—perhaps—fortune's favor lies for you? In your name lies the key to success probably. I can tell from your name and from your birthday, if you are willing to let me see them, if you are lucky. Won't you submit them that they may be analyzed according to a process of astrological and cabalistic divination I have evolved to determine whether a cash fortune will be yours?

Big Prize of $10,000.

Big sums in cash will be paid daily and Sunday by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for lucky names. An additional cash prize of $10,000 will be paid for the one lucky name of them all.

Is this day lucky for you? Your lucky days may come at any time during the year. They may come any day of the week, any week of the month—any month of the year. Today might not be lucky for you—but tomorrow will—or the next day—or the next. All I need is your name. Luck is constantly changing.

Fortune spins a wheel of chance. Your name entitles you to a winning number—a winning day.

You should send in a coupon every day. Today's coupon is on page 9. Just because you may not win one day makes no difference. Some days are luckier than others. So don't stop when you've sent in one coupon. You may have a day to send in a coupon daily. The date of sending will count. The day and time I receive your horoscope blank will count. There are certain dates when you may smile for you.

Try It Every Day.

Try your luck every day. We'll have lucky days and days on which good fortune attends us. The Roman emperors used to consult an oracle to see if the day was propitious or to see if fortune would attend them that day. Fortune's psychological moment for you lies hidden in your name. Let me reveal to you just when that luck comes by a study of your name.

Pythagoras taught that the minds, actions and success of men would be according to their fate and name, and Fate advises men to be careful in giving fair and happy names. Names are lucky and unlucky at all times. You must strike, however, while fortune has the iron heated for you. Some where in her store of treasures she has a gift for everyone sometime. Let me help her come to you through your name. She knocks on your door on different days unknown to you. I can recognize her summons through your name.

Your name will be given a cash prize if it is lucky, according to its true luck worth.

Process Is Intricate.

By a remarkable process of combining names and numerals, birthdates and other dates, which I am asking you to supply, I am able to determine just how lucky you really may be. The secret of all this I cannot tell you—since it is my own method of casting horoscopes and determining luck for the individual.

The names of the first prize winners will be printed in THE TRIBUNE on Wednesday. Other lists of prize winners will appear every day and every Sunday in THE TRIBUNE. Therefore, you will want to watch both the Daily and Sunday Tribunes after you enter your name to see if yours is among the lucky ones.

You may win a share of the fortunes in cash to be paid.

You may win the additional prize of $10,000 for the luckiest name of all.

ROBBINS FEARS KIDNAPING OF BOY BY EX-WIFE

Father Will Bring Lad Back in 3 Weeks.

Least he be spirited away by his mother, a cordon of guards may be thrown about George B. Robbins III, when the child is returned to Chicago by his father.

Assurance that every precaution will be taken against the possibility of a "kidnaping," with his mother as the principal, was given yesterday by Aver H. Robbins, attorney for Cutler H. Robbins, father of the 3-year-old lad.

To Return in Three Weeks.

"Mr. Robbins will return to Chicago in at least three weeks, bringing George with him. Mrs. Robbins can see the child as the divorce decree states, but she will be given no opportunity to gain custody of the baby," Mr. Robbins said.

"Rumors of Mr. Robbins sailing for the Pacific points are groundless. Through a business deal he lost his position as treasurer of the Shuman company, in which he is a heavy stockholder, but he will soon resume official connection with the firm in Chicago.

"Any report that Mr. Robbins intends marrying Miss Frances MacLane is also false. They are merely good friends, and Miss MacLane simply volunteered to take George Jr. to San Francisco to see his grandfather as a favor to Mr. Robbins."

Will Continue Fight.

Mrs. Mary C. Robbins, the child's mother, who caused the arrest of Miss MacLane at Ogden, Utah, Thursday, on a kidnapping charge, reiterated yesterday her determination to continue her fight for the custody of her little son. Habeas corpus proceedings through the federal courts next week are planned by her attorney, Morris G. Leonard, the latter said yesterday. He characterized as a "mistake" a statement of Mr. Robbins that Robbins' $150 monthly allowance payments are up to date.

George B. Robbins, grandfather of little George, a former vice president of Armour & Company, is head of the extensive Sutter reclamation project in California, it became known yesterday. He was recently divorced from Mrs. Lillian Robbins.

WHISKY BOTTLE GIVES TEXT FOR PASTOR'S SERMON

'Planted' Stranger Proves Boomerang.

For his Sunday morning sermon yesterday, the Rev. Arthur L. Duncan, pastor of Trinity Presbyterian church, Laramie avenue and Fulton street, had based his text on the doctrine of faith, hope and charity, but the presence of a stranger at the door caused him to digress to politics and prohibition.

The stranger was lying in the vestibule. Mr. Duncan, who happened to be the first to arrive, took it in. It was a pint bottle. But the label read: "Bourbon whisky." It contained a tablespoonful of a dark brown liquid.

"I smelled it," said Mr. Duncan later. "That was enough I knew what it was—whisky."

Then It Comes Out.

However, the congregation did not learn of his discovery until after Mr. Duncan had started his sermon. His text was: "Jesus Saves." He adhered to it for some minutes. Then he suddenly reached under his reading desk and held aloft with his right hand the bottle.

"See that?" he asked. "I found it when I came this morning. It was placed where the congregation, coming in later, could plainly read the label and see what it was. I have no doubt some one with wet sympathies planted it there. It is a part of the wet propaganda. But I will make it a boomerang."

Mr. Duncan then drew up a petition, asking for a limitation of Chicago's representation in the state legislature. He had it circulated among the congregation for signatures. The number obtained is not known.

Changed His Mind.

"Under normal conditions," he said, "I would oppose limitation of Chicago's representation, but since the city council passed resolutions favoring the return of light wines and beer and wet propaganda like this of putting a whisky bottle in a church is going on, I am in favor of curtailing the power Chicago can exert in the legislature."

Asked for a supplementary statement, he said:

"If Chicago were in the right on moral questions and if petty politicians, like Coernak, weren't trying to break down the temperance laws, I would not object to present representation. But the temperance question is so thoroughly important that we ought to do everything we can to make it put on them. That is why I favor a mean trick to accomplish our purpose, but we ought to prevent these people from breaking down the temperance laws. A check should be put on them. That is why I favor a limitation of Chicago's representation. I want the county unit."

The county unit is the same advocated by E. J. Davis, Chicago superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

EXTRACT FROM LETTER FROM RICHARD H. ALLEN, CHICAGO, N.Y.

THE VENGEANCE OF HENRY JARROMAN

BY ROY VICKERS

Henry Jarroman, released from prison, to which he was sentenced twenty years before for the murder of Charles Eddis, hears that John Camden, his one time friend, who stole his wife, killed Eddis, and fastened the crime on him, is dead. He has nourished his hatred of Camden all the long years in prison, and now his embittered heart bids him make Camden's daughter a victim in place of her father.

Camden's daughter, who believes her name to be Nadia Quest, is employed as a typist by the Hon. Wilfred Stranack. He knows her and asks her to marry him. Lord Douceter, Stranack's father, is startled when he recognizes a ring Nadia wears and loves her for his reason. It dominated his every thought, guided his every act.

And as he watched Nadia gradually take his wealth for granted, he felt the triumph of the successful craftsman. When she gave a shilling to a pavement artist, his imagination feasted on the day when she would mean for that beggar's freedom; when she frowned over a hairdresser's delay, he saw her with her dusky tresses cropped to a hideous shortness; when a play disappointed her, he filled his memory with the blankness of prison walls.

He was riding with Nadia on the downtown, some three weeks after their arrival.

"Nadia," Jarroman began abruptly, "I have no wish to intrude upon your private affairs, as I think you are aware. But I cannot help noticing that Mr. Stranack sends you constant offerings of flowers. Should we not show this young man some hospitality, my dear?"

"Perhaps I should have explained the position between Mr. Stranack and myself," she said at last. "I did not wish to make a mystery of it, but I wanted so much to forget it. It's all over now."

"Does Mr. Stranack think it—whatever it is—is all over?" interrupted Jarroman.

The girl's face flamed.

"No," she admitted. "I wish he did." And without further comment she related the position of affairs. Jarroman digested it in silence for a moment. Then: "As I understand it," he said, "Lord and Lady Douceter object to the marriage on account of your parentage. A natural objection, from their point of view, and, it seems, from yours also. Do not let it embarrass you, my dear. I quite realize you can value Mr. Stranack's career above everything without yourself feeling ashamed of your father and his past."

He had thrown a humorous sympathy into his voice that made her turn to him impulsively. Before she could speak, however, a scrap of paper fluttered across the road, and, combined with her own abrupt movement, frightened the mare. With a nervous whinny the mare bolted down the road, running in that part just above the cliffs.

Jarroman, who was the more powerfully mounted, flogged his horse into pursuit and drew level with her. He snatched her rein and threw his great weight on it, but his own horse balked him.

There was no real danger. The cliff head was yet a good hundred yards distant, and the road with its grassy bank intervened. But Jarroman lost his head in sudden cynic terror of her death. He snatched her from the saddle, and crushed her to him with such force that she cried out in mingled astonishment and pain.

His own horse was glad to stop under the double burden. He lowered her gently to the ground.

"Why ever did you do that?" she asked. And then, as he saw her slightly in his saddle, "O, you're faint! You've hurt yourself!"

With a violent effort Jarroman mastered himself. Muttering an apology to Nadia, he went in pursuit of her mare, now trotting peaceably away, within a few minutes the girl was mounted again and they were on the way back to the hotel.

D'ANNUNZIO GIVES DRIVE A SAMPLE OF ITALIAN SPEED

Battle Scarred Racer Is Thrill Producer.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Streets of Milan and steep Alpine grades have grown accustomed to the roar and swish of the famous Italian Franchini speedster which Capt. Ugo d'Annunzio, son of Plume's warrior poet, took at express speed on any errand that happens to hand.

Tourists driving in Italy are advised to stay well to the left of the highways and keep an eye out for the cloud of dust that heralds the coming of the "hero" d'Annunzio, who was holding court about the striped chassis of his Franchini show machine.

There is only one thing Europe can teach us about automobiles," Rickenbacker registered after accompanying the Italian designer about the salon, where the finest cars of five nations are on display, "and that is how to brake properly. Brakes on all four wheels should do the work."

"Should do it," interrupted Capt. d'Annunzio. "Let me demonstrate!" And he went to the curb and climbed into the battle scarred racer from Milan.

"Where!" said the traffic cop on the Drake intersection a moment later, as the car took the corner on two wheels. "It's as well that the auto show comes but once a year!"

Eddie Is Convinced.

The car sped north, bringing up with a jolt one inch behind the rear bumper of the end car in the usual Lincoln park traffic jam.

"Ouch!" said Rickenbacker. "You have demonstrated. My heart is said to be weak and, besides, I've sworn off flying. Let's go and sit down somewhere other than a police station, where it's nice and quiet. I believe you have a lot of your father's temperance."

"Quite the reverse," declared d'Annunzio after their return to the salon. "My father is in reality a very practical man. He believes in owning one's own home and everything. We are greatly misunderstood times, but I was telling you about this straight line cylinder principle—"

Big Crowd at Salon.

The salon drew a lion's share of automobile crowds during the day. The auto show proper closed its doors Saturday night to reopen them again this morning for the week's run. The salon will be open from 2 p. m. until midnight each day this week.

Show features today include the annual banquet of the National Automobile Dealers' association in the Hotel La Salle and a series of executive meetings. All attendance records were broken at the Coliseum, Annex and Armory Saturday, according to Sam Miles, manager of the national exposition.

AUTO SHOW NOTES

Motor clans have rallied 'round to put over the biggest "Old Timers' club" banquet and dinner at the mass hotel. It is the new development just produced to "sell under $500." It is said that the actual sales price will be announced only after all possibility of further price drops is past. Mr. Klingensmith was formerly an official of the Ford organization.

John Wilkerson, vice president of the H. H. Franklin Manufacturing company and "father" of the first successful air-cooled car, is in charge of the Franklin exhibit. He announced yesterday that shipments of cars from the Syracuse factory last year totaled $345 cars.

Pioneer of the straight line body effect, the Liberty appears this year with five entirely new models in the field. Body lines give the car the effect of considerably increased size, although no weight has been added.

The Belgian Minerva, Italia, Duesenberg, Dagels and Rolls-Royce, are among the high lights of the annual salon at the Drake.

New models introduced by Cadillac and Packard this year are among the features of the Coliseum show.

The new Nash Carrolle, a brand new model in the form of a five passenger enclosed car and priced at $1,350, is one of the major attractions at the show.

Reviewing Quartet of Music Makers on Programs of Sunday

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Among the violinists there is Fritz Kreisler, and there are the others. Twenty of good ones there are among the others, too. But after they have all been heard and analyzed and acclaimed, the return to Kreisler is certain.

Peripatetic Sunday afternoon musical investigations brought the schedule to the Auditorium just as Kreisler was beginning his final group. They were short pieces by Dvorak and Gen. Charles G. Dawes and Kreisler himself, good tunes with individuality to them and an unfeeling index to how big a violinist he is.

For it is many times noticed that a big work may be played with quite an air by a lesser artist. A small piece is a real test.

Three other musical events were taking place at the same hour. Arthur Kraft was heard at the Playhouse in some songs by Burleigh and Pearl Curran, also in a pair of encores. A voice of the right weight for recital giving, of suave and lovely texture and under superb control, is his; like an excellent knowledge of how to sing and how to pronounce the English language.

Sharing the program with him was Robert Macdonald, a pianist with the developed talent and the imagination to make him a fine player of modern music. Deodad de Sevarac is a composer infrequently represented on programs, but his "Baigneuse au soleil," in Mr. Macdonald's rendition, was worth remaining to hear.

Grace Welch, at the Grand opera house, was both pianist and composer, and evidently a sincere student of both departments. The Bach-Liszt G minor prelude and fugue traveled a bit more swiftly under her fingers than one is accustomed to hear it, but she knew it thoroughly and did it well.

A sonata for violin and piano from her pen was played by Hans Muenzer and her. She composes fluently, logically, and, barring only an evident admiration for the works of MacDowell, very entertainingly.

The Phonolays, finest of the string quartet players, gave the last of their three concerts at the Blackstone theater. They were heard in the final movement of the Beethoven E flat major, op. 127, which was superb.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

THE CHILDREN AND GEORGE WASHINGTON

More Entries in the Race for $11,650 in The Tribune's Prize for School Children and Teachers.

Here are more of the essays by boys and girls entered in the George Washington prize contest being conducted by The Tribune. The contest closes on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Perseverance Was Boundless.

Among all the great men that hold high place in history none can compare with our illustrious statesman, George Washington.

He excelled in honesty, truthfulness, and firmness, and above all, in perseverance. His perseverance was boundless, as was proved in the revolutionary war, especially during that long, cold winter at Valley Forge, where he kept up the spirits of that army, who were deficient in clothing and food, and won for us that great gift of God, national independence.

Washington's lofty ideals and pure, clean life endeared him to the people who confided to him the infant steps of their new republic.

Undoubtedly were all men and women of today to study his life and try to follow in Washington's footsteps, the world would not be so full of crime and evil as it is.

Why is he loved, honored, and respected after a lapse of over 100 years? Because a character so noble, so brave, who never forgot, as it is in the heart of every good man and woman to admire the good, the beautiful, the brave, and the true.

ANTONETTE WEST,
849 East 64th place, Chicago.
Age 14, eighth grade, Holy Cross school.
Teacher, Sister Mary Althea.

Life of Trials and Triumphs.

Almost every American boy and girl knows George Washington as the boy who never told a lie, because when questioned by his father about the cherry tree that he had chopped down he told his father the truth and afterwards, the truthful boy became the great man.

George Washington was born of English parents on Feb. 22, 1732; he became a great American general and statesman; he believed in righteousness, had a noble disposition, and was loved by all who knew him.

His life was one of many trials and triumphs, on the 15th of June, 1776, he was unanimously elected commander-in-chief of that little army that won the independence of the American colonies, an independence that was won after many struggles and hardships. This great victory brought Washington the title of "the father of his country," and made America a nation.

When the constitution was adopted later on, Washington beloved by his countrymen was inaugurated first President of the United States on April 30, 1789, serving the people faithfully for eight years from 1789 until 1797. He declined the presidential chair for a third term, which showed that he had a noble character and set a precedent for presidents who followed.

He died two years later at Mount Vernon, his home in Virginia, on Dec. 14, 1799, honored by America and the world, "truthful to his party," "faithful to his countrymen," "reverenced by every loyal American." Blessed be the name of Washington.

HAZEL O'DONNELL,
Age 11, Grade 5, Parochial school,
Teacher, Sister La Salle.

THE New Series of the good Maxwell produces a kind of performance that is a pure delight to the experienced owner and the novice alike.

The light, specially-made pistons, the perfectly balanced crankshaft, not only increase motor smoothness, power and flexibility, but reduce vibration to the vanishing point, lengthen the motor's life and hold down repairs.

Such satisfactory results are the direct outcome of the skilled engineering and the sound manufacturing which builds the good Maxwell.

Another Moon Triumph the New Six 40—$1295

Six-cylinder motor
115-inch wheelbase
31x4 cord tires
Genuine leather upholstery
Weight 2,500 pounds
German-silver radiator

Here's a blood-brother of the Moon Six-48—the car which has captivated America with its daring and elegance.

This new Six-40 embodies such proven units as Continental, Timken, Delco, Borg & Beck, Spicer, Rayfield, Fedders—each and every one a product of the world's foremost specialists—an array of skill not found in any single organization.

Then to their aggregate genius is added that of the Moon engineers, who, with their co-ordinating skill combine these units into a complete and perfect whole which has won for Moon an envied reputation.

Born for those who shun the commonplace, the new Moon Six-40 will satisfy the most fastidious. From stem to stern, evidence of attention to detail and refinement.

Only genius evolved through fifty years' experience in fine coach building could have achieved this result. Compact, without crowding—ingeniously fitted—faultless in taste.

INVESTORS HERE WELL PROTECTED AGAINST FRAUD

BY O. A. MATHER.

In these days of successive large flotations of new securities it is doubtful if there is general understanding and appreciation of the extent to which Illinois investors are protected against fraud. While the purpose and application of the Illinois securities act is public knowledge, there are other safeguards that are not known.

At the time of the drafting of the Illinois act early in 1919 the Advertisers and Investors' Protective Bureau, Inc., was created under the auspices of the Chicago Association of Commerce to give the public and responsible dealers in securities the full benefit of the legislation. It has acted in cooperation with the Illinois authorities, in the investment bankers and the newspapers in preventing the sale of fraudulent securities.

Censor of Advertising.

By arrangement with the principal Chicago newspapers the bureau has cooperated as advisory censor of financial advertising, with the result that during the last two and a half years advertising submitted describing over $130,000,000 worth of oil, mining and other questionable securities has been rejected, necessarily involving a large saving to the investing public and insuring to the benefit of legitimate dealers. A comparison of the financial advertising in the Chicago newspapers with those of the other principal cities demonstrate the importance of this cooperation.

The bureau has assisted investment houses daily in determining the proper classification of securities and in preparation of the various schedules necessary when qualifying securities for sale in Illinois. It is consulted frequently by the state department on matters relating to the securities act.

Maintains Investors' Guide.

This bureau now has prepared a list covering a large mass of miscellaneous securities which may be dealt in legally under various exemption clauses of the Illinois act. As the result of amendments made last June, securities listed on various stock exchanges are no longer exempt by virtue of being so listed, but only as they may individually meet certain requirements of the law.

The bureau has been supported financially by the Association of Commerce, newspapers, banks, investment dealers, and members of the New York and Chicago stock exchanges. It has caused to be refunded to purchasers of fraudulent securities about $100,000. It maintains the investors' guide service carried on in the Illinois Journal of Commerce for the information of the various boards of trades, chambers of commerce, and individuals throughout the state. It acts as a source of information for the credit departments of banks seeking information of the status of various securities under the Illinois law.

Wagner's Creditors

John Hill Jr., secretary of the creditors' committee of E. W. Wagner & Co., says the committee is a general one, and is to work in cooperation with that in New York to conserve all creditors' interests throughout the country. It aims to assist the receivers in bankruptcy to get all money possible out of the assets. His headquarters are at 67 Board of Trade Building.

GOOD SECURITIES SELL IN LONDON? WELL, RAWTHER!

BY MANFRED EMANUEL.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1922, by The Chicago Tribune.)
LONDON, Jan. 29.—The feature of the week in London financial circles has been the immediate oversubscription by the public of every good new security offered. First, the Anglo-Persian oil and local loan lists were closed as soon as they were opened, some $20,000,000 being subscribed many times over. Then, two shipping debenture issues—Cian line and African Steamship company—were quickly absorbed. Of course, only the first class issues stand any chance in these "safety first" days.

The feature of other kinds was the slump in City Equitable, insurance shares on the difficulties of its reinsurance subsidiary, which may involve a prominent firm of stock brokers.

As to the markets, the business for the last week has again been on a

Price 101 1/2 and Interest

To Yield About 4.80% to Optional Maturity and 5% Thereafter

Due November 1, 1931. Redeemable at par and interest on November 1, 1931, or any interest date thereafter. Coupon bonds in $1,000 denomination fully negotiable and interchangeable. Interest payable May 1st and November 1st.

These bonds are obligations of the Lincoln Joint Stock Land Bank and are secured by either first mortgages on farm lands or United States Government Bonds or Certificates of Indebtedness deposited as collateral. The liability of the Bank's shareholders is double the amount of their stock.

The Lincoln Joint Stock Land Bank is now the second in size of the Joint Stock Banks and lends on farm lands only in Iowa and Nebraska, one of the richest agricultural sections of the country. The officers and the directors are experienced, successful and representative business men who have accumulated their wealth chiefly through operations in farm lands and are thoroughly familiar with the problems of safely loaning money on agricultural property. The President of the Bank and several directors have been actively engaged in the farm loan business for more than a quarter of a century.

The Bank operates under Federal charter and Government supervision. The issuance of its bonds and the collateral pledged as security have been approved by the Federal Farm Loan Board, a bureau of the Treasury Department of the United States Government.

The bonds are prepared and engraved by the Treasury Department. The Act under which they are issued provides that: "Farm Loan Bonds issued under the provision of the Act shall be deemed and held to be instrumentalities of the Government of the United States, and as such they and the income derived therefrom shall be exempt from Federal, State, Municipal and Local Taxation." This exemption clause covers all forms of taxation, exclusive of Inheritance taxes.

By a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, rendered February 28, 1921, the constitutionality of this Act and the tax exemption features of these bonds were fully sustained.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

Hale Holden, Esq., President of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad Company, has summarized for us as follows his letter to us describing this issue:

The proceeds of this issue will be used for additions and betterments during the year 1922, including about $15,000,000 to be expended for equipment.

The lien of the first and refunding mortgage will cover (directly or collaterally) 8,998 miles of road on which the Company's total outstanding mortgage indebtedness, including the present issue of bonds, will be about $22,628 per mile. No more of the underlying mortgage bonds, including the general mortgage bonds, may be issued, except for the purpose of pledge under the first and refunding mortgage, but the Company reserves the right to sell approximately twelve million dollars principal amount of underlying bonds now held in its treasury.

The Company's gross operating revenues, net income and interest charges for ten years have been as follows:

¶Preliminary figures.

Since 1913 annual interest charges on funded debt have been reduced approximately $1,700,000.

The Company has now outstanding $170,839,100 stock, 97.09% of which is owned in equal parts by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railway Companies. During the period (since 1901), in which the Burlington has been controlled by the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern Railway Companies, the Burlington's surplus income and miscellaneous profits have amounted to approximately $406,000,000 after charges, whereas it has paid out in cash dividends on its stock about $228,000,000, and has added approximately $178,000,000 to its surplus. The Company's total funded debt outstanding in the hands of the public on December 31, 1921, was $9,442,400 less than on June 30, 1909.

THE ABOVE BONDS ARE OFFERED, SUBJECT TO ISSUE AS PLANNED, AT 97% AND INTEREST, TO YIELD APPROXIMATELY 5.17 PER CENT

The right is reserved to reject any and all applications, and also, in any case, to award a smaller amount than applied for. The amount due on allotments will be payable at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., in New York funds, on or about February 10, 1922, against delivery of temporary bonds exchangeable for definitive bonds when prepared.

NEWS OF THE DAY THROUGH THE EYE OF THE CAMERA

NEAR THE SOUTH POLE. Lieut. Shackleton is shown standing next to the flag given him by Queen Alexandra at the start of his expedition in 1906, and which he planted at south latitude 88 degrees 23 minutes, the farthest south point ever reached by man.

FACING DEATH IN THE ICE. Lieut. Shackleton is seen (at right) inspecting damage done to his last ship, Endurance, by ice floes. Two months later the vessel sank. The crew was marooned on Elephant Island. Death threatened all. Lieut. Shackleton with five men took to sea in an open boat, finally reached aid, and after four heroic attempts rescued the rest of the crew.

HIS LAST FAREWELL. Sir Ernest Shackleton, one of the most romantic figures of the sea, died on his little ship, the Quest, somewhere near the antarctic circle on Jan. 5, cables from Uruguay announced yesterday. This photograph is the last one ever taken of the intrepid explorer. It shows him on the deck of his vessel as it started on the long adventure, waving farewell to the many thousands of cheering British people who lined the banks of the Thames river.

TO PEKING CONFERENCE. Miss Jean Kennedy of Omaha, a student of Mount Holyoke, South Hadley, Mass., who will represent twenty-one U. S. colleges at the World Student Christian federation in China in April.

SHACKLETON'S FARTHEST SOUTH. The map shows the route taken from New Zealand and the point reached by Shackleton in his expedition in 1906. He was stopped ninety-seven geographical miles from the south pole, thereby establishing a new world's record by more than 100 miles. There he planted the union jack given him by Queen Alexandra. It was somewhere in this region that the explorer succumbed to a heart attack.

QUEEN OF GOLFERS. Miss Marion Hollins, United States champion, photographed as she sailed for Europe to play matches with Miss Cecil Letch, British star.

JAIL BREAK BY 75 FOILED. They were using a steel door as a ramp to batter down the grating shown in the picture, when guards with shotguns halted them. Jailer Peter Lawrence and First Deputy H. C. W. Laubheimer are looking over the damage.

Beasley, and (seated) Mrs. Tallafiero Milton. The play will be repeated tomorrow night in Kenilworth, Wednesday night in Evanston, Thursday and Friday in Winnetka, and Saturday in Lake Forest.

NEW BRITISH M. P. The young and beautiful Viscountess Windsor, third member of her sex elected to the house of commons. She was married a year ago.

NO SUITORS WANTED. Since winning the Tribune's prize as Iowa's most beautiful girl Miss Marie Novelle has had hundreds of proposals. This sign is the result.

WIDOW OF SLAIN PREMIER. Mme. Takahashi Hara, whose husband, the premier of Japan, was assassinated last November, photographed as she was placing offerings in his memory on the altar of a temple near her home, Shiba, Tokio.

BARS JEWISH STUDENTS. Stephen Haller, Hungary's minister of culture, who rules that only 5 per cent of the entries to Hungary's universities may be Jews.

MILADY'S NEWEST FAN. Resembling butterflies, with gorgeous outspread wings made of the brilliant plumage of parrots, pheasants, peacocks, etc., these fans are in great favor now in Paris and soon will be seen in numbers here. Miss Marie Novelle, English pianist, introduced them and is shown with two models.

PRINCESS A MILLINER. Princess Troubetzkoi, who escaped from the bolsheviks in Russia, now paints hats and glassware for a living in London. Her hats are becoming quite the rage.

ALMOST CONTORTIONISTS. This remarkable action snapshot shows the wild antics speed skaters go through to get under way in a race. The picture is of the start of a heat of the 220 yard dash in the championship races at Plattsburg, N. Y. The heat was won by Charles Jewtraw (third from left). Roy McWhirter of Chicago won the championship. Jewtraw was second.

HEY, BUDDIES, LOOK WHO'S HERE! These pretty girls are rehearsing nightly under the direction of Sgt. Patrick Henry Barnes (at the piano) for "A Buck on Leave," which will be produced for two weeks at the Auditorium, beginning Feb. 6, for the benefit of the 1st regiment, I. N. G. service and ex-service men, under the auspices of the Santiago society.

ONCE WEALTHY, NOW HUNGRY. Mrs. Ella Cook, 75 years old, was found in a tiny room at the rear of 379 Townsend street yesterday. She had no coal and no food. Her only friend is "Tom," a cat. Her first husband was John H. McGillicuddy, wealthy official of Armour & Co. Since the death of her second husband her fortunes have steadily declined, until she faces death from hunger and cold.
